Prologue

One woman's account of her transformation through the mind of her spiritual guide, is intended to show you how you too, can be transformed into the original of you, whom and what you really are. This book will bring you to a point where you will investigate, with curiosity and with intention, your own spiritual guidance.

This book will give you the 'know how' and the 'can-do' of how to move forward in your life, into the great unfolding, the great awakening. I promise you, your time will not be wasted, nor of little consequence as you read this, for coming into relationship with your guide is the most important thing you could ever do. Read onward with an open mind, and stay tuned to what's in store!

Chapter 1

Let us look at the life of the scribe, as she has come to know me so well. Her life can be seen as a prototype for those who desire to connect with the reality of the spiritual dimension there. She is not, in any way, thinking up these words, nor planning the book, nor strategizing about what is the best way to go forward. She is simply listening to the words, as they come forth, and writing them down.

We then must look at her, as simple in her gifting and in her intent, for she knows not what will come of this book, nor of all the books she has scribed. You could honestly say, she has given much of her lifetime to this endeavor, and feels not regretful in any way. What she does know is that what she has come to learn is true for her and for all humanity. And so, this volume will focus on the truth, as she has come to know it, and will attempt to share it with you.

We are not interested in giving you another book of lessons or teachings, as we have done in the numerous books that have come before this one. Those of you who know of these works, will be glad in a fresh approach to sharing the good news. No, in this volume we will tell a story, an engrossing story of Randi's life, and what it has taken for her to dedicate herself to this mission. We will explore how a simple woman, with no particularly outstanding traits, came into giving a monumental gift of such importance to humanity.

She will go along for the ride too, as this will be as interesting to her, as we unfold her story to you. And so, we will go back to the very beginning when she was just an idea in her parents' minds and hearts. We will go back to a time when life was much more simple, and roles of parents were defined by the culture. She was fortunate to have been born to parents who held a high degree of value on children, and who let them come forth as God would have it. She was born into a family where many children came forth—six in all.

Back in the days when she was born, mothers held the role of homemakers and housekeepers, and raised their families, primarily, staying at home. Dads would go to work and bring home the pay check. They had the careers and the role of interacting with the outside world, and male dominance in decision-making often ruled. This was the accepted way, and seemed the right way at that time.

However, there was an undercurrent of 'something is not right about this,' as women realized they were often forced to choose between having children, or engaging in a meaningful career themselves. There was distress and unease, as women often felt trapped and kept in a role of subservience there. Randi's generation began to feel this mightily, and there was turmoil in the culture, as 'women's rights' movements developed. We on the spiritual plane, were not too unsettled about this, for we understood that equality of the sexes was paramount for forward movement to occur.

We saw that all races, creeds, and sexual orientations, needed to be understood at the deepest levels, as equal there. We understood that this mindset needed to occur for the ultimate unfolding of Oneness with each other, and with Source, Father/Mother God, our First Cause.

The tumult that came forth was a result of those in power resisting giving up the status quo, and holding on to supremacy and traditions, even claiming divine rights there, and holding on to biblical writings, as justification for this. The true message of Oneness and love were sub-thoughts to the laws, rules, and regulations that were claimed as of superior meaning. Religious dogma, church hierarchy, and a separation of those who were more spiritually worthy, divided the people into those that were 'in' and those that were 'out.'

We here on the spiritual side were saddened at this harsh and often cruel understanding of others. We longed to wake people up to the truth of whom and what they are, and we are working still, for this.

Our character did feel dissatisfied in life, for she had married before finishing college, and felt some dismay in leaving this undone. She felt vulnerable in her life, for she had no means of earning a living if something should happen to her husband. Now with children to raise, she put her energies into the tasks at hand. Underneath the busyness and apparent normalcy, was an unsettled energy and a lack of joy in what she was involved in.

We were there, ready to assist her and guide her through the malaise she was feeling, but she had closed the doors to our input and reality. In truth, she had been raised as a Christian and had parents who were shining examples of love and faith in me, in God, and in her spiritual reality. But she had allowed her husband's skepticism to lead the way in their life, and looked to cultural norms, to provide the roadmap.

She had envisioned a life of being the wife of a well educated and successful professional man, living in a traditional house with character, in a well-heeled neighborhood, and raising children, who in turn, would be well educated and have good jobs, marry well, and produce great grandchildren. She thought she would be happy if this would all happen, for it was the script that had been imprinted in her from the culture of image and consumerism in America at that time.

We were interested in helping her mightily, for we knew that before she had incarnated on the planet, she had made an agreement, or had come to an understanding, of what her mission would be as she lived there. She had agreed that she would dedicate her life to telling others of the good news of direct connection to me and to other spiritual guides who are there for each one, as they do so turn inward. Each one there, who has incarnated on planet Earth, has met with their counselors and has chosen what they will do as they come here. There are untold number of missions, goals, wants, dreams, and aspirations that are desired and agreed to, as incarnation unfolds for each one. Many goals are not directly related to spirituality, but all can be said to have living love as their motive and means to live out these missions, goals, and desires. How would Randi uncover her mission? Let us proceed and find out.

Chapter 2

To find out how she would uncover her mission, we must go back to a far earlier time. We must go back to what covered it up in the first place, not only for her, but for mankind—what covered up the truth of who and what mankind was and his purpose, his mission, there. The story could not progress without an understanding of the initial separation of mankind from his Source.

You see, when mankind first came to the Earth, for he did come there fully formed and fully understood as a new inhabitant of Earth, he was joined fully in Mind/Consciousness with his Maker. He (and when I say 'he,' I am speaking of men and women both) lived a life of Oneness, with Source. He lived and moved and had his being intertwined, interconnected to his Maker. Living love, peace and harmony reigned at this time, eons ago. That time was truly the 'original' of you, for Source 'came through' into the world, and life issued forth therefrom. Deep joy and harmony were felt, and each one born was honored as a son or daughter of God, and honored as integral to the Whole. What happened to cause a change in the mindset of mankind, his consciousness there?

Well, one, then two, decided to 'experiment,' shall we say, with doing something without 'connecting,' i.e. living out from Source. There was a certain thrill, an excitement about living this way, and since free will is an inviolate gift from God to His own, Source could not and would not impose His will on His own. Others soon adopted this way, and began taking pride in going it alone. What happened was that sometimes this way would appear to have a good outcome, but other times it would be disastrous. Mankind felt alone in his life and in his decision-making. Now risk and 'iffiness' entered in, and with that, fear and guilt. With fear and guilt came all the concomitant behaviors and feelings which have become known as sin. As mankind chose to be cutoff from his Source, sin, sickness and death — and deep alienation were experienced.

Because God is Universal Mind and that Mind is the substance of living love made manifest, and because God moves as a Wholeness, and cannot be separated into this or that, He still remained in the hearts and minds of all of His creation. The God seed remained, always. We must remember that mankind's ills are a result of his decision to live a life of separation, to live a life cut off, and to live from ignorance there.

Mankind infused meaning into nature, animals, people and arbitrary symbols there, calling these things gods, and worshipping that which was outside of himself. The masses would follow those who set themselves up to be leaders, and who claimed special privilege with God. This led to massive abuses by these ones promising life after death, even for those who had already died if money was paid — what were called 'indulgences,' there.

Let me talk about my role in all of this now — why I am here at this time, writing these things to you, through the mind of this woman. First, I am the one known as Jesus. I came to Earth, in consultation with my spiritual guide, and my Father, my Source. Your planet is my responsibility and the responsibility of other designated ones, for we have agreed to work unceasingly, to wake you up from the miasma of separation you have found yourselves in.

Our job is to work with each one, dissolving the ignorance, the ideas, and the cultural learning, that has held you hostage to separation for so long. We are involved in the Great Awakening of your planet, and we are delighted to do this. Awakening to what? Awakening to Oneness, dear one, to the full understanding of your part in the Wholeness, and the forward movement of our Father/Mother God, our First Cause, our Source and Center, and the Sustainer of our lives. Let us continue on with how Randi discovered her mission.

Chapter 3

Prior to finding something, there is usually a searching, and this was true with Randi. She had left a marriage of many years, and had now entered into a time when finding meaning in her life was felt as an uppermost priority. She had bought into the cultural norms, and found an emptiness there. She innately knew there must be something more to life, for her desire to search was unrelenting.

Now came weekends in the library, or the bookstores, or lying on the couch, reading. She studied anything spiritual. She began with the eastern religions, for they held much that she had never heard of before. Her curiosity was greater than her need to follow the Christian tradition she had been so lovingly brought up in. How wonderful were these teachings, and when it came to the power of love, all seemed to point to this as central to what was being taught.

When she came across the book, A Course in Miracles, she felt immediately, that here lay the knowledge she was so hungry for. She also learned of Paul Tuttle who brought forth RAJ, stating this was Jesus coming through. How wonderful the teachings were and how transformative, as she learned of the Holy Instant, that place where we can come into spiritual guidance. She spend several years listening and studying The Course and hearing Paul as he channeled RAJ, mostly through audio tapes, or sessions on his website.

We here on the spiritual plane were delighted in this unfolding, for we knew Randi had agreed herself, to being a channel for Jesus before she had incarnated in the third dimension. She had agreed to tell others about the direct availability to everyone of me, as each one goes within, and asks for my presence to be known to them. We knew this was her mission, but she wasn't fully aware of it yet. We had work to do, to open to her, the full extent of what she was involved in. And so, her life proceeded to unfold there, with many working with her that she was unaware of. She was fully engaged in this unfolding discovery, and there was no need to 'fire her up,' so to speak, for she was 'fired up' to continue her quest.

Here I will stop a minute to ask you a question. Have you found your mission? You know I had a mission to fulfill as I came to Earth, and each of you also, has a mission you agreed to, as you chose to come into the physical dimension, again. The intent of this book is primarily for you, to serve as a verification and a validation, that searching and finding your mission is utterly important for you. This is not a haphazard thing to be involved in. It takes deliberate effort, prioritizing, and most of all, learning to join with your spiritual guide there, and with me. I am available for all to know. The next chapter will shed light on the events leading up to Randi's moment of illumination, an event that transformed her life.

Chapter 4

Randi had not given up on finding another mate. She had found someone she thought would be a good match, but as the months went by, she knew this was not to be. It was after a time together, that the failure of it hit her hard. She had come home late in the evening, devastated and perplexed that it was over. Upstairs in her small bedroom, she cried out to God, “If this relationship is not to be, what am I to do? Is there a plan for me, Father?”

Immediately, she felt herself leaving her body. She was looking down on her body, but her Consciousness, her spiritual body was hovering above, near the ceiling. After a short time, she returned to her physical body in stunning awe at what had just happened to her. Now she knew that people really are eternal, for she had experienced life away from her physical body.

Now a Being of brilliant light appeared before her, whom she somehow knew was Jesus. “Randi, you do have a mission there. Let people know of my direct connection to everyone.” She fell asleep, knowing that her question had been, most meaningfully, and wonderfully, answered.

Another experience, happened shortly thereafter, when she was coming out of a session with a client. Nothing particularly unusual about the session. She was walking to her car, and looked up at a small evergreen tree in front of her. Suddenly, it was shimmering light. Everything she looked at was shimmering radiant and beautiful light. She was radiating this beautiful light, and most wondrously, this light had meaning! The meaning was love! Love such that she had never imagined before. No words can describe the love she experienced. It was complete love, nothing missing in this love!

Now she understood what ‘waking up’ must mean—experiencing this love all the time, and realizing that everything is a part of this love and that Source, our Divine Parent, issues forth as this living love. At this moment, she knew she had been transformed, and that she would never be the same again. She had a radical perception change about life, and what it really is — a moment of illumination, a transformed woman, and her life ahead. What now will follow for her, and how will she share the news so all can wake up? Let us read on to discover this.

Chapter 5

Now came an intense turning inward there. She had many questions to ask and needed to be assured countless times that what she was experiencing was real and not her imagination. She kept daily journals, and would often write her questions down, and as she received the answer, she would write that, also. The topics we discussed were wide ranging, and addressed all areas of her life.

Over the weeks, months, and years her conviction into the truth of what she was experiencing increased. We on the spiritual side, never left her, nor would we, for we were interested in this clear channel to the spiritual dimension. We worked with her, and instilled in her, the importance of what she was involved in, and that it was the most important thing she could be doing with her life.

We told her to start a publishing company and call it The Foundation for Transformation. We told her that everything pertaining to this will be, and must be, guided, for it is, in all ways, a co-joined effort with me, Jesus there.

We knew that there was a hunger for meaning in the world, and that the institutions that had offered this meaning were losing their impact, as compromise was watering down the meaning and infusing it with the cultural norms. We knew that religious services were often infused with what could be called entertainment and this changed the reason why people came.

Now political ideology played a part in the mindset of certain church affiliations and left the parishioners more radical in their views and beliefs about others who were not of the same ideology. We here on the spiritual side, were sad to see this unfold, and knew that hunger for a deeper understanding of life, and for our purpose here as inhabitants of planet Earth, was felt by millions.

The question remained, could Randi get the word out, for she had much to overcome there for this to occur. We were challenged in this, so let us proceed with what unfolds.

Chapter 6

What were we up against? We were up against a culture where many spiritual teachers abound. Many books by the hundreds were in print, dealing with the meaning that the spiritual dimension has in the world for humankind. Every religious denomination and many of those who had experienced illumination had books out there. Biblical scholars and leaders of others faiths had heavy tomes to share.

How could the books of an unknown woman with no claim to fame, and an introvert's tendencies ever be given even a moment's worth of attention? Now you must realize that we are not able to violate human will on any front. Free will is an inviolate gift from Source, our Divine Parent, and we could not and would not manipulate, coerce, finagle, seduce, nor hold hostage one's free will ever. We are not magicians that have the power to curtail or change the principles put in place by our Creator/Sustainer. These are inviolate there and will remain always.

What can we do? Well, we know the power of living love. We knew that as Randi opened up to us and to her substance, her living love, she would open to the way forward there. Let us explain this in greater depth to you.

Each one, each creation, is made up of the substance of living love. Our Father/Mother God, our Creator/Sustainer, ushers forth as spiritual substance, the movement of living love. Living love is energy at the subatomic level. It ushers forth as meaning there. This meaning can be summed up in a verse from the Bible which says, Behold, I make all things new. Living love then, has the power to bring order out of chaos, health out of sickness, and happiness, joy, and light over sadness, depression and darkness. That is its function. It is a gifting on all fronts, as it radiants out renewal there.

This living love can be accessed most readily as it is opened up to. It is opened up to most readily, by quieting the thinking mindset, which is really a misuse of mind, and allowing in knowing, the joined mindset there, the mindset of relationship with the Transcendent, the way you are meant to use your mind.

My mission there, is to be as a hand held outward, inviting you into the inner sanctum of the Transcendent, into the Whole of you, whom and what you really are. My living love encompasses you, dear one, even as you read this, it encompasses you. Therefore, we have renewal as our purpose, as our action, and as our gifting.

As Randi opens to me even more faithfully, we will see if the wonderful gift of these books will get given. We, on this side, are confident in the outcome of a tremendous gifting there. We are confident in this, and we will work with her, unceasingly.

Chapter 7

It is difficult for us to portend the future. Because life unfolds anew at each moment, we are not able to know with certainty, what will come forth. However, we do look at probabilities and possibilities, and can say what is most likely to occur. We see the big picture as it unfolds, and we see the mindset of those who would greatly benefit from the books that have been given to Randi to publish. We have identified the ones who will move forward because of what they read and find so true. There are millions, truly millions throughout the world, who would open to this material, and find that it rings so true to them.

There must be a trigger point for the words to get given there. There must be a focus of awareness in Randi's direction and all the ducks must be in a row, or another familiar phrase, all the stars must be in alignment there, for this gift to get given. We are working to bring this attention to her and so we are telling her now as she is writing this, to "pay attention there and be ready to move when the beam of light shines on you. We will guide you specifically."

All of this requires the long view, the big view there, and must be looked at as of far-reaching significance. This is not about a burst of light, like a shooting star in the sky, but it is a long and steady light, like the sun's early glow in the forever morning of a day.

And so, after she has departed from the physical plane, the light from her gift will still shine on. That is the importance of this gift there, for mankind, now and forever. We have taken the time to lay out to Randi and to you who are reading this, the far-reaching importance there of what is written in these books. Let us now shed light on the implications for mankind if the words are incorporated into the mindset and lives of its recipients.

Chapter 8

What are the implications for mankind there as he opens to what is written here and incorporates it into his life? The implications are gigantic! We would see ‘clarity about our role in the universe’ unfold as of great importance. We would realize that we are not alone on our planet, but are abided with by the Whole of the spiritual dimension. We would fundamentally change our perspective about what our role in the universe is, as it exists within a Universal Hierarchy of gargantuan proportions. Our imaginations cannot fathom the immensity and the purposeful unfolding of our Source, our Father/Mother God, throughout the millions of planetary systems and dimensions, as our Creator designed it.

Now would come the great releasing of ignorance that has clouded our Minds for eons of time. The brilliant light of love would shine through each and everyone, and this light would move through that one with gifting as his and her mission — gifting, renewal, and transformation — each in the way that one was created to give it.

Sin and sickness would be unknown, and death, or the leaving of the physical plane to the spiritual, would occur as that one so willed it and was ready for it. Now going back and forth through the dimensions would be a common place occurrence and welcomed there, by many. We would see beauty and harmony we have never known of before in music, art, dance, sport, writing, poetry and in all the creative endeavors. Those who love science would discover break-throughs that have stumped humankind for centuries, in psychology and psychiatry, medicine, biology, chemistry, physics, astronomy and others. There would be so much more to capture our attention, and the interests and delights of learning in all fields would abound.

I am not telling you this as a pipe dream, dear one, nor as a carrot on a stick to get you to follow me. I’m simply opening the door on the landscape of reality as you would live it as you opened to awakening to Oneness, to whom and what you really are. You are so much more there, dear one, truly, so much more.

Most of all, you would have tender loving feelings toward your world and all that exists there. You would feel joy and exhilaration in life, and each day would be heartily looked forward to. You would not, and could not feel alone there, and you would move to the input, the unfolding of the ‘joined with Source’ mindset always. We would be together there, too, dear one, as well as your spiritual guide, and so many others who have worked with you and are currently working with you, whether you are aware of it or not, to bring you into your awakened state. Let us return to Randi’s unfolding in the next chapter.

Chapter 9

Our character has started her publishing company, and has put up a website. She has begun the writing of daily messages to her readers there, and has continued turning to me for next steps. She occasionally finds a venue where she can speak out about the books and about the direct availability to me there, to spiritual guidance within each and everyone. We have instructed her that fame and fortune are not necessarily waiting in the wings, and that the reward must be in our relationship.

If you are looking for a drama in this book — ego dynamics working out between two or more individuals — and a story line that keeps you on edge and fully engaged there, you will not find it in this book. This book will be engrossing, but not for those reasons. It will be engrossing because of where it is coming from. It is truly coming from the spiritual dimension and from One whom you have heard of so often there, but One who you see as a biblical figure, a teacher, and some would say, a Savior, there.

This book will primarily be about me, and it will call on you to trust that I am truly coming through to you in this way. I want to tell you my story, along with Randi's story, for this is an opportunity to shed light on some misperceptions about what I supposedly taught or did not teach there. Some will call this blasphemous, but we have told Randi again and again, that she will need to handle blowback as she goes forth, from all sides, there. She will be viewed by some as unstable and as an outlier, a fringe person there. Some will 'get it' and come into the truth of what is there for them. Some will 'get it,' and I am hoping that someone will be you, as you read this.

Let me start out right away by clarifying something. I did not come to die for your sins. Ignorance can only be dispelled as the light of day is brought to it and the truth shines forth. It is said that I gave my life so that you might live. It is said that my blood was shed for you, and that it washed away the sins of all mankind forever, as he confessed his sins and claimed me as his Savior, there.

I was born in a time when sacrifices of blood animals were made there, to God. I was born in a time when death was rampant and many lost their lives to the powers that were in charge there. I was charged with a crime of heresy, of undermining the Jewish religion that held such dominance in the land. I, too, was raised in this, and rules and regulations held dominance there, with my family also.

But I had known since I was a child, that I was directly connected to my Heavenly Father, and that I didn't need to feel obligated to obey the dietary restrictions and the numerous laws and regulations that dominated the land. I felt strongly, that I had come to Earth to tell people about the love of God and about the direct availability of Him to all, as they turn within and ask.

Now the prophets of old had predicted a Savior, one who would deliver the people from the bondage they had felt from those in power there. And so, it was assumed, that I was the One. My teachings told of freedom from bondage to the old, and finding the new, there, within, the Holy Spirit, who is available to all, as invited in. Because I spoke of deliverance, of freedom, of love, and of eternal life, I was called The Savior. People had expected me to come, and were so in need of what I was teaching there, so passionately.

Now always, what I was teaching, came from my Father there. I was always listening to what came forth from my 'joined mindset,' my Source there. When I said, 'My Father and I are One,' this, indeed, was the truth as I lived it there. Never did I feel alone, even as I was on the cross. I felt abided with and endured, knowing that bodily suffering, the shedding of blood, was not a lesson I wanted to teach. But dying did provide an opportunity to return after death, and to teach a lesson that I did want to teach, and that is that we are eternal, and cannot die. The eternity of life was a major message I wanted to impart to those there. My resurrection is true there, dear one, it is true. You are eternal and cannot die, and you live, forever, anew. Let us move on to some ideas that will surprise you there, for you have not known of them.

Chapter 10

We are working with Randi to dispel some deeply rooted ideas there, that limit her and others. She will need to listen carefully as she writes this, for these are ideas we have never put on paper before. She will need to be in a receptive mode and willing to 'go' with what she hears, putting up no resistance. Ideas like these may seem far-fetched and 'out there,' but it is time to share something of the mystery and the majesty of your Maker there.

Let us look at some things about your physical body. Your body could be said to be a microcosm of the way Source works. That is, it harbors untold capacity for renewal and regeneration there. Your lifespan could be said to be much, much, longer than what you now experience. Truly, you are capable of living for many years longer than what the conditioned thinking dictates. We would encourage you to plan on living well into the hundreds there, a century at least, and even dozens of years more. This will greatly increase the years of vital living and contribution to others you can give. You will find sickness is far less frequent and a youthful vitality will remain with you, there.

There will be a greatly increased experience of moving in and out of the body into the spiritual realms. Many will report of this on a regular basis, sharing what they have seen and heard. The multidimensional nature of life will be as a known fact, and will usher in new technologies and new areas of study in the universities, there. This will not be drug induced, nor brought about by artificial means. Your understanding of who and what you are will be greatly increased and you will value your contribution to the greater unfolding much more.

In order for other planetary systems to interact with Earth, your spiritual nature, your multidimensional nature, will have to be understood throughout your planet, as a part of what is involved there. This will unfold soon, as millions begin to experience their spiritual nature, the meaning from Source, Universal Mind, more fully. The Universal Hierarchy is also that which unfolds ever anew, and also is involved in uncovering more of itself and its greater unfolding in the Mind of Source.

It will take willingness and openness to let go of the status quo in thinking, and open to all that will unfold so wonderfully for you. Be prepared for the unexpected, and welcome in a new beginning for humankind. Welcome in a new beginning, for newness is your birthright, always, there.

Chapter 11

Now we will look further at what unfolds as humankind lives out from the joined perspective. As ‘meaning’ floods down from Source, each and every one will manifest what he or she is given to do, there. The gifts that each one has to offer will fill the earth with new and delightful revelations. Now we see the movement of living love in all its transformative glory.

We see the unfolding as profound renewal, and we enter into a time of vast, prolific, and unstoppable change as never before witnessed. The vibration of living love that each one is, becomes even more palpable, even more radiant, and even more fulfilling. This is the way our Source holds us in Mind, and the way He moves and has His Being in all its glory. We are His creation, His own, and He holds All that He is, there, within His very Being. He holds back nothing. We are direct inheritors!

This mighty unfolding, this mighty awakening cannot happen unless each one chooses it. Each one will choose it as he or she becomes aware of the very presence of divinity within him or herself to be accessed directly. That is why this book is so important to get out there, and plant the seeds of relationship and of love within the minds of humankind. It is of the utmost importance.

Many others have come into the mindset of what has been called the Christ Consciousness, the Mind of our Maker, and are working with fervor, to tell the world also. It is time to explore more fully, our relationship, for these ideas will remain abstract until you begin to experience them. Nothing will happen until you have a perception change, and that won’t happen until the floodgates of your relationship with the divine unfold for you, as a felt experience.

I am longing to have that happen between you and me. I’m talking to you there, you reading this, and I am asking you to join me in the quiet within. Can you take a moment now and quiet your thinking mindset and ask me in? I am here for you directly, dear one, directly, here for you. Wake up to who and what you are and joy in the truth made known to you at last. You will know when we have made connection, you will know! Humankind is on the cusp of a great change over into the wonderful creation he or she is, emanating from his or her Maker always, and One with All That Is.

Chapter 12

Let us not struggle with finding the full understanding of ideas and concepts that are given here. An intellectual understanding will only be fully known when you are fully awake and moving wholly to the Voice for Truth. This will come, dear one, this will come. But what is necessary for you to know will be given to you and will be the next steps there that will move you forward.

You see, the ‘letting go process,’ the releasing of ignorance, will be done in the progression that suits you there, and pertains to you as an individual. Each one will be worked with as that one opens up to this releasing. I will, and/or your guide will, move you lovingly forward as you do so open to our guidance and allow for it to occur there.

As more and more open up to spiritual guidance, the way will be easier for all, for the density of ignorance will have lessened. The veil will thin and the miasma will clear. How wonderful this will be, as millions come into the truth. What is your part? It is simply to ask Me in. Ask for your spiritual guide, or for Me, to show you the way. A little willingness goes a long way.

We must undo, or empty out, before the great infilling, the dawning of truth can come forth, but it will come forth, dear one, it will! Trust is called for here and staying with the process and the practice. Do not feel as if you are beyond our reach, nor have insurmountable roadblocks in the way. No one is beyond awakening, and no one is held apart from our love and our investment in you. We could not, for we would be withholding from ourselves, who we are, as All are One, whether he or she is aware of it or not.

The woman who is listening and scribing this text has just had a new understanding of spiritual input as ‘true meaning’ in her life. Though she has heard it for years, through many teachings and listening and my guidance, she has just now grasped the much greater implications to her in her every day life.

So this is an example of how one person’s long practice, finally has penetrated into her mind, a greater understanding, that will have far-reaching consequences, for her and dear one, for you. Let us move on with more that I will tell you about myself, as I lived on the planet.

Chapter 13

When I lived on the earth plane, my ministry was directed to those who were open to hear. The powerful and the elites were closed to hearing anything from a man who came from the small town of Nazareth. I was a Jew and had shared the message of release from the constricting rules and regulations of the Jewish traditions. Now those who listened were those who felt bound by the harshness of the powerful and the tyrannical reign of those in power at the time.

The ones that listened were those who lived in the small towns and the rural areas of Palestine. The message of freedom to connect most directly to the Creator, to God, was welcomed, and brought such peace and hope to the oppressed, these ones who were open to receive. When I spoke to the people, I spoke of the Kingdom of God as the place of connection within, where all are welcome. I told them to go and pray in secret and to listen for the Voice for Truth, the Holy Spirit there.

Now I was in constant contact with my Father as I preached the good news. I was in contact, and this contact was always present. I listened and realized most fully, that I had the spiritual hierarchy, the Wholeness with me, always. Yes, I had guides working with me there, too. I felt their love and their unfailing concern for what was transpiring, and what would occur as I continued on. It was in the third year of my ministry, that it became apparent that death would be on the horizon for me. Yes, I did ask if it was truly necessary. I was told that death would be but the gateway to life eternal, and that death would open the door to telling the good news of eternal life, as I would come back to the people there, as a star witness to this.

Now when I told the people to believe in me, I was telling them to believe in our connection now, and after I was gone, for I would not leave them ever. I would be with them, in spirit, as they turned within and asked me in. I knew that I had as my mission, to wake the planet up to the truth of who and what each one was, and that this mission would extend far beyond the time that I actually lived on the planet in physical form. It would extend until the job was done, and so this writing and countless other messages being brought to you by many who have opened up, signifies my continued work there on the planet, my mission in action. Now let us look at Randi as she begins to understand the importance of what she is doing.

Randi has asked herself these questions many times. “When I die, what will be my legacy? Will my mission—to tell others about the direct connection of spiritual guidance to each and everyone—be fulfilled, or will it be as a wish and an effort left undone? Will my life have mattered in the world? Will I go back to those on the other side, knowing I had followed guidance all the way, or will I be faced with disappointment in myself in what has been left undone?”

Let us focus on this for Randi’s sake, for a moment. Randi, as you become aware of the immensity of the gift you are giving, you will take the work into what we would call ‘high drive’ there. You will step up the writing and stay open for opportunities to share the good news.

No longer will you see this as something to plug along on, but you will see it as the place of ‘first efforts’, highest priority, and of major significance to others. Remember, you don’t have to ‘come up’ with what next, for as you come into guidance, the next steps will be given to you. No matter what gets done, you will be welcomed and warmed by those of us who are working there with you, as you cross over. But you are alive in that dimension now, and many years remain for you to give this most important gift.

We are at a point where more effort will have to be made, and a greater outreach there. We will point the way, but it is for you to open to it and go for it there. We cannot do it for you, for you are the arms and legs, the hands and feet, the heart and voice to do the work there, as we infill you with what to say and do there. You must be the answer to the call.

Everyone who is reading this book, is given a call to find the reason they came to planet Earth at this time. Everyone, and that dear reader, includes you. We are working with a mighty effort, to awaken each and every one to the truth of whom and what they are. And so, at this very moment, right now, we would invite you to turn inward and find the place of peace where all thoughts and emotions are gone. Then ask that I join you. I will, dear one, I will make myself known to you, and we will begin a journey and an adventure of a lifetime there.

You have a legacy of love to leave, and you have a lifetime of giving to put forth. Remember, what you give you will receive, for you are giving to your Wholeness. When you do return to the other side, you will be welcomed and shown the love and care we give to all. You will review your life, and then, you will plan a new undertaking, whether back to Earth or elsewhere. Life is a divine adventure, always.

Chapter 15

How can we write a whole book when what we have to say can be summed up in one sentence, which is spiritual guidance is directly available to each and every one. I have said I will not focus this book on teachings, per se, as what was done in so many of the other books, but I will focus on giving you an overview of how it all works there. This will prove to be of interest to you, as much of what is said here is unknown to most of humankind.

The spiritual dimension interpenetrates all. It is the invisible plane, which is filled with entities who abide there, in varying states of awakening. We could say, it is the locale of meaning. When you quiet your thinking mindset and join here, you could say you are opening to the meaning your Source has for you, that is living love made manifest, your Wholeness.

When humankind separated its mindset from Source, eons ago, and decided to go it alone, when you got a divorce from your Divine Parent, you choose to give everything the meaning you thought it had. Why? Maybe you thought it would be fun, a thrill, and/or something to try for a while. Many adopted this way, and it became rampant on planet Earth.

However, now humankind felt vulnerable, and felt, we could say, nakedly afraid, without Source. Fear and guilt held sway in mind. To guard itself, humankind set up a set of protective strategies there, a defense system, which now posed as a wall of defense there, for now the world looked threatening and full of that which could cause harm.

Thousands of years ago, even before the Bible was written, an evil one with cunning powers, was devised or thought to exist, who was the antithesis to our loving God. This evil one, eventually became known as Satan or the devil, and was thought to be constantly at work to win over the souls for his power and glory. This idea still holds strong with many today. The separated mindset, which is not a real presence, has the hallmarks of this imaginary deceptive one, and acts as a marauder, ever intent on dissuading you from coming into your Wholeness, your joined mindset, as this would be its demise.

Let us look more closely at this separated mindset, this liar, this defense system extraordinaire. It is cunning and moves with sleight of hand. It whispers and persuades and insinuates there. It judges and disregards and berates. It sets itself up as the decider-in-chief and always feeds the ego dynamics of self will, appealing to self righteousness, and alienates itself from others. Its modus operandi is to divide and conquer. Now the consequences of living out from this mindset are horrendous. All the ills of humankind can be said to usher forth from this separated way.

This work and many other works are coming forth to tell you about how to abandon this bastardly mindset and return back into how you are supposed to use your mind there, joined forever with your Creator/Sustainer, your Father/Mother God, your Source. Let us continue on with this mission of sharing the good news.

Chapter 16

Now that we have looked at the separated mindset, the mindset that is in use by millions on the Earth at this time, we will focus on the joined mindset, the mindset of Wholeness, the way you were created to use your minds. This mindset can only occur when the separated mindset is let go of. You have heard the verse, “No man can serve two masters; for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to the one and despise the other.”

It is the same way with mindsets. Either you use and submit to one, or to the other, but not both, for they have opposite agendas, means, and motives. In addition, the joined mindset is true and the separated mindset is false, a made-up thing.

How does one access the joined mindset? How does one let go of the separated mindset? It may seem a difficult thing to do, but with practice and willingness it is easily done. You see, to let go of the separated mindset, you must find something else. That something is your peace within. Let us describe the way to do this. It is best to be in a quiet place alone. If you are in between duties or tasks and have those things on your mind, it will be necessary to forget them for a while. Close your eyes. Eventually, closing them will not be necessary.

Let us imagine you are by a stream which leads to a lake. Your thoughts, emotions, snippets of feelings, ‘should do’s and can’t do’s,’ are in the stream, like flotsam, passing by, and causing ripples, there. As they get to the lake, they disappear into the still waters and are released. In your mind, there is placidity. A flat, calm and smooth water is felt, ripple-less and still. You have reached the place in mind where you have entered the vestibule of the sanctuary, dear one, a place where we can meet. “Are you there, Lord?” you ask. “I am here, dear one, I am here.”

You will wonder if the voice you hear is real. You may be in touch with your own guide, dear one, for each one has a guide who accompanies them, always. But if you ask for me, it will be me that answers you there. Now you may at first attribute what you hear to your imagination. Many say, ‘I have a vivid imagination and a wish for this to occur, so I am making this up on my own. This is not real.’ But, dear one, it is real! You see, dear one, your ‘asking’ signifies a willingness, which must be there in order for you to hear me. I cannot and will not intrude into your mindset without your ‘say so.’ Your free will is inviolate there, dear one, an inviolate gift from your Source, and cannot be violated there, ever.

It will take multiple times coming into guidance for you to truly get it and believe it, and you will question how this could be true, for it is not in the popular culture to talk of this or do this ever.

Some few do hear and do talk of it, and more and more are telling others about what they have found and what they live from. More and more, dear one, and hopefully you, too, soon. The next chapter will discuss some of the pitfalls that may befall you as you make the great changeover to the joined mindset there.

Chapter 17

As you proceed with ‘getting to know’ and ‘living out from’ the joined mindset, the mindset of Wholeness, there will be pitfalls along the way. In this chapter, we will look at what may beset you there, as you proceed in your unfolding.

First, there is the hurdle of the culture. Your culture does not recognize direct spiritual guidance as true. Have you ever had a class in spiritual guidance in your schools or even in your churches? There is talk of meditation and of mindfulness and prayer, which is all well and good, but it is never brought to the point where a relationship with spiritual guidance — about the direct availability of spiritual guides is discussed or explored. Now there are those known as mediums or psychics, who do openly talk of communing with spirit, but they are often portrayed as outliers and charlatans, ready to mislead and take advantage of the simple-minded, the perceived unsophisticated ones.

The culture of capitalism, has as its main goal, teaching and training its people to be consumers there, to get educated to make a living, so that they can take their rightful place as consumers of goods and services, pay taxes, and generally serve in aiding and abetting the bankers, and the corporations, and the mega-rich and powerful. Encouraging and supporting spirituality, and especially spiritual guidance, would leave these so-called ‘culture-shapers’ out of the equation of how to live, and so they openly disdain, dismiss, make light of, find laughable, any such involvement.

Another hurdle is the prominence of science, and particularly the medical community. In physics, astronomy, chemistry, biology and all the other physical and life sciences, spirituality is disdained and frowned upon. Since science requires that experiments be repeatable and measurable, that which can’t be measured in the physical sense is dismissed out of hand, as of no value there, a waste of talent, time, and resources. However, I tell you the secrets of the universe and of life itself, will never be known without including the spiritual nature of it all — the First Cause of it all. If they would open to it, major breakthroughs could and would occur.

Now, let us look at the field of the behavioral sciences. This is important in reviewing what hurdles you might encounter, because we are studying the mind and the use of mind in relationship to behavior, which is the purview of psychology and psychiatry. Here again, the importance of the spiritual is left out. In fact, there is a diagnostic manual which equates connection in mind with a voice, as a symptom of schizophrenic disorders. Remember, the Voice for Truth is always a loving and helpful voice and will not contribute to sin, sickness, death or separation in any way.

We have learned from psychology, the way the mind builds defenses to ward off that which it perceives as harm, and in this it has made a contribution. However, without the understanding of the joined mindset, the mindset from Source, no real healing will occur. Through medication and strategies of behavioral management, a patient may get back to what would be so-called normal, or learn to manage symptoms, so as to lead a less fractured life. But in all ways, without bringing the joined mindset into it, no real healing will have occurred.

The most incessant and in-your-face hurdle you will find is the presence of the all intrusive media there. With a mission to get your attention at all costs, and sell you its products, and shape you to its will, the ever-present media, largely run by those bankers and those corporations, entrain you to ignorance of your real potential and your real worth, dumbing you down and belittling spirituality.

Nothing is greater than the power of living love as it works in the hearts and minds of humankind. So do not feel that you are up against the impossible there, for this is not true! Clearly, I say, these hurdles can be overcome and dismissed by turning inward to Me, the Voice for Truth. Remember, you are never alone ever, dear one, I am with you always.

Chapter 18

Are you still wondering if this could happen to you? Are you wondering if you really want to hear the Voice for Truth? Is there a part of you that is okay with just living the way you have been taught, that does not wish for anything bigger, better, greater, or what is really true to occur? You would not be alone, for many do not see the need, nor the desire for opening to truth. Let me now work to tell you why it is of such importance.

It is important because the Voice for Truth is just that. It is truth there. Now the truth of life is not variable as has been portrayed with such gusto by many there. Truth is relative, they say. Truth is truth for one individual, but that same truth may not be for another. Let me sum up for you, in a nut shell, what truth really is.

You are a created being ushering forth from your Creator, as you live. You are, first and foremost, a spiritual being. Your Creator holds you in His Mind even this moment. You have always been an idea in the Mind of your Creator, your Source, identifiable as you, now in the physical dimension. You are meant to live out from this Mind as you open to it, as you use your Mind as joined there with your Maker. But eons ago, humankind decided to go it alone, and left the joined perspective, creating an isolated and separated mindset causing defenses to come into play. Sin, sickness, and death were the result, and this separated mindset is the cause for humankind's ills on Earth at this time.

Each one has a spiritual guide, who has gone before, available to that one, who loves him or her and guides him or her, as that one opens to that guide. Spiritual guides help the transition to full awakening, letting go of separation, for each one. My mission and my role is to awaken the planet there. I am available to each and every one, as I am invited in. Life is Creator's creation. The substance of creation is the energy of living love and the meaning of this love is renewal in all areas of life and in all dimensions. That's it in a nutshell, or at least, in two paragraphs, dear one.

Are you not curious to find out if you, too, have a spiritual guide? I can assure you it is worth the time and willingness it takes to discover who you really are, dear one, the truth of you. It is worth the time discovering the love that you really are.

Here, transformation begins, but never ends, for life becomes a movement of renewal into eternity. Now let us move on to what I faced when I was there on the earth plane. For this is truly relatable to your coming into guidance.

Chapter 19

What I am about to tell you can be thought of as useful for you there, as you come into your spiritual Wholeness. When I lived on the Earth plane, and when I came into the full knowledge of my mission there, for though I was in touch with my heavenly Father, my Source, from the time of being a young boy, I did not fully grasp the immensity of what I had to give until later on in my young adult life.

I did not fully grasp at first, that I was to teach that which would impact the multitudes for generations, indeed for millennia, to come. My immediate mission was to tell all those I came in contact with, the good news of direct connection to their Maker there, He who dwelt within, as each one opened to Him. Because I had experienced this directly, I was a credible teacher, for I knew what had happened to me was there for everyone who willingly sought. I knew that we were all abided with by the Holy Spirit, and that this spirit of Oneness was readily available to all who joined within, seeking divine relationship.

Now my forward movement came always from guidance, from the Father. I was never out of touch with Him and we companioned in spirit, together, there. I never longed to be free of this mission, nor did I ever wish for a different life than what came forth for me. I was joyous in being with the people, and gladness filled my heart. It was a privilege, and brought me great joy to minister to the people, to teach them the good news of direct connection.

My disciples were also my pupils, and were given instruction in what they would need to minister to the masses there, in an honest and an effective way. They were my companions and took much of the loneliness of this mission away. We were together as a nomadic band of teachers and preachers, and though they looked up to me as the Messiah, we were in it together, all the way. My disciples were ordinary people, chosen from the masses, as I saw their open hearts and minds, and as I was privy to what they had agreed to before coming to the Earth plane. They had been given a task, a mission, to fulfill too, and these ones were the open ones. I had known them before coming to the earth plane, and so much about them was already known to me. We traveled together as a band of men, all happy in our teaching and ministering.

They had many questions for me and often was heard, ‘Lord, Lord, what about this, and what about that, and how does this happen and who are you really?’ I was happy to teach them, and as we go through this book, I will share with you much of what I taught them and how it relates to you there in your life, in your time, and in your place. Stay reading, for there is much of interest to come.

Chapter 20

What I will share with you in this chapter, is something I shared with my disciples when it became apparent that I would most likely die, and that my death was indeed, a necessary precursor for resurrection to occur. I told them I would be with them again, and that my passing did not signal the end of our time together. I told them I would return, and I did, showing, indeed demonstrating, ‘death has no sting, no victory,’ there.

Let us speak then, of death of the physical body, as it is experienced on the earth plane. This is not a subject many want to think about, for it signals the end of sentient life in the three dimensional world, which has been loved and involved in. Death implies loss, leaving others, and a mystery of what is to come, if anything, after the event.

I can tell you with all truthfulness, that life certainly doesn’t end! It is an ongoing experience into eternity. God, your creator, moves as a Wholeness, and cannot be separated into parts that would leave, become as nonexistent, for that would make part of God nonexistent, and that cannot be, ever! Now what’s real about you is your spiritual body, and this is what continues on after the physical body has expired. The physical body can be said to be a container only, a material image, housing us while we are here. Who we really are, our spiritual self, has moved on, back into the level of its original home.

I can tell you most honestly, that what’s in store for you when you depart from the earth plane, will seem as natural and as normal to you as being alive there is to you now. You will have some time of acclimation, but it will not be as shocking as you may think. There will not be a judgment before a jury, nor a time of separation from the comforts of home. You will feel remarkably like yourself.

Now will come a time of reflection and regrouping, or to use the vernacular, ‘getting it all together.’ You will have counsel in this, and a life review will be a part of it all. You will not be judged, but you, yourself, will come to terms with how your life was lived. You will experience regret at not having been more loving, but this will not serve to impose guilt on you, but rather to spur you on to be more loving from that time onward.

You will take the time you need to decide next steps and never will you feel all alone in your decision-making. I will be with you there, as well as your own spiritual guide. We will not abandon you when you leave the physical plane, nor will our attention be turned elsewhere. I said, ‘I will be with you always’ and this means the time after you leave the physical plane as well. Always, dear one, now and always.

Chapter 21

I have said that this book would not be a book of repetitive teachings that we have covered so thoroughly in the other books, but the time for giving you what is so necessary for your awakening is at hand. So we will continue with a recognition that the only topics really worth reading are those which open your mindset to ‘the more’ of you that is there, so eagerly waiting to be discovered. We must bypass the easiness of an entertaining book, and dig into something of real substance for you.

I will not give in to the egos cries of ‘repetition, repetition, too much repetition.’ This is as much a ploy as any other to distract you from digging in and getting it, dear one, really digging in and getting it. So let’s not apologize, nor deflect our attention from real purpose and intention, that is, to give a gift of real meaning.

With that said, and with my intention clear, I will proceed in the work at hand. The work that I am engaged in and many others here on the spiritual plane are involved in, is that of lifting the human race into its divine origins, and instilling in each one, the knowledge of the direct availability of guidance from the transcendent there. We are involved in lifting the dense veil within the minds of humankind. This veil serves as a cloud, which portrays each individual as a law unto himself, and portrays and injects the idea of ‘individual freedom to choose’ as the ideal there.

Now free will is an irrevocable gift from your Source, because without it, each one would be as an automaton, a slave, or a robot, bending and swaying to the dictates of the highest bidder or the most powerful. This is not what your Creator had in mind ever! It is imperative that you freely choose to live out from the joined mindset, for only then will your full faith efforts be put into play.

In order to lift the veil of the illusion of separation, we must work individually with each one. For coming into awareness of whom each one is, is an individual act, an individual letting go, and an individual recognition of his or her divine nature. Now this is felt as so blasphemous to so many, for in many minds, this reeks of ego to the maximum. To claim divinity as one’s own heritage, seems like the ravings of a mad one. So you see we have our work cut out for us. We have our work and our intention clear, and it is through the hearts and minds and willingness of those who are listening, that we can make the inroads into the ignorance of a people gone astray.

You are reading this book. That makes you as one who is open to input from the divine. That makes you as one who could offer tremendous service to your fellow citizens of the planet. You are the one who we are counting on for help, and you are the one who can change the world into its truth. Stay tuned for what next.

Chapter 22

So let us tackle the most difficult idea for so many to swallow, and that is that you are divine. The deeply ingrained idea that each one is a sinner and unworthy, plagued with guilt and shame and inherently bad, is rampant there. The idea is that each one is suffering in a world of corruption, infiltrated by an evil one called the devil, who is continually at work to get each one to worship him, and to be an ambassador for evil, hatred, and division.

Now right away, let me tell you that this is blatantly false! I can tell you that this idea of a powerful and cunning evil one, intent on outdoing God in the quest for souls, was there long before the Bible came into existence. For thousands of years this was the explanation for all the ills that humankind experienced. So the idea of a war was set up, between good and evil.

What was really at work here within the minds of humankind was a thought system that developed over eons of time as humankind opted to go it alone, so to speak—to become a self authorizer. The Adam and Eve account sums it up vividly. The lovely garden, which could be said to be the mindset of the joined with Source perspective, where all needs were lovingly and abundantly met, was forsaken for a whimsical foray into the ‘do-it-myself’ mindset. What was at first perceived as a bit of a dare from a serpent—who promised knowledge like God’s—became done by another, and another, and over time, living from the joined mindset with Creator, Father/Mother God, was abandoned.

Now alone, and ‘aware of their nakedness,’ the Bible says, or we could say, vulnerabilities, fear and guilt loomed large there. Defenses were put into place to serve as protection from these vulnerabilities. This defense system was cunningly built up, as the separated mindset now was in full operation. Cunningly, this mindset, the ego, brought into play strategizing, belittling, lying, cheating, stealing, power grabs, hurting, maiming, killing, wars, and the list could go on and on—all that we call sin, sickness and death. All this time, eons and eons and eons of time, the joined mindset was right there to turn to. God never did depart from His creation, and was there, ready to guide and assist, as humankind opened to Him.

Through the ages, there were those who did come to earth and lived out from the joined perspective. There were those who did try to teach others about the way to live in communion with God. I was one of these and I am here still in spirit, never ceasing to share the good news of direct connection and the good news of your birthright as children of Source, as divine ones there. We will explore you divinity further in the next chapter.

Chapter 23

I have said that you are divine. To be divine means to have ‘God stuff’ as your substance. This you have, dear one. The spiritual reality of you, which is who you are, is made up of this substance, the energy of living love. This living love is the energetic substance, the meaning of Source, our Divine Parent. God left nothing of himself apart from His creation, so all vibrate to this meaning.

What is the meaning that living love reflects? Its meaning is found in the words, “Behold, I make all things new.” So we are unfolding anew at each moment, each day, here on Earth, and as we transition to the spiritual plane throughout eternity. Your divinity then, can be said to be the movement of living love, a unique expression of the Wholeness and One with it. It’s all one gargantuan movement of meaning, dear one, unfolding from the Mind of Wholeness, as each one opens to it. Everything, everyone, every thought, word and deed impacts the Whole. So coming into alignment with who you are is no small and insignificant thing!

What happens when we align with our Source, and come into the full flow of the movement of living love? We immediately let go of aloneness! This, in itself, is such a boon for you, that this is reason enough to join there. When I use the term ‘align,’ I mean turning within and quieting your separated mindset and asking for spiritual guidance, and for relationship with Me, and/or your spiritual guide. What happens? Well, now you have entered the territory, we could say, of the transcendent realms within. Since our Source is Universal Mind, when we enter this place within, it is as if we have turned on the receiver and transmitter of our brain, our Mind.

Now you can hear directly from Source, from Me and/or your spiritual guide. This direct connection is what so many have not known of. They have prayed and talked to Me, but do not expect an answer directly in their Mind. It is true that sometimes the answer may come in a different way, but an answer will come for you, dear one, and many times, it is immediately given to you in your Mind, from Me.

You are divine because God cannot be separated into this and that, you and me, them and us. God moves as a Oneness and you are of this One. All of creation is this Oneness moving to the meaning of living love. Now that we have answered that question, let us move on to another, and that is the question of how to undo the false understandings we have incorporated into our lives as the truth.

Chapter 24

To undo the false understandings you have held for this lifetime and for the lifetimes you have experienced before, for reincarnation is true, dear one, you must recognize the way your mind works. Your conditioned thinking is ingrained so thoroughly, that it will take focus to undo what you have been so conditioned to believe.

Begin by declaring your desire to learn of the truth of whom and what you are. Your willingness is of the utmost importance. Your willingness is the key to forward movement, to unlocking the door of the truth of you, and opening to the gargantuan reality of life itself, as it was created to be. Your willingness and your desire gives us the green light to work with you, and now we can begin in earnest, to undo your limited thinking and open you to the truth.

Your willingness must be accompanied by your peace, for you cannot hear if your mind is filled with the noisy chatter of the separated self. You cannot hear, and you cannot decipher the still, quiet Voice for Truth when you use your mind to come up with things all by yourself, to self-authorize. This is antithetical to whom you really are. Learning to quiet your mind is not as difficult as it seems, for it just takes practice and staying with the ‘letting go,’ there. Soon you will be familiar with coming into that still place, or the void, or the ‘field of receptivity,’ as we have called it here.

When you arrive in that place, invite me in. I will be there, ready to assist you in your ‘letting go’ process. We will dialog together, you and I. You can bring all your wants, needs, concerns, and questions to me, and together, we will uncover who you really are. As you learn of the false way you have interpreted life, and the way you have defended yourself against what are perceived dangers, you will let them go and feel a release as you have never experienced before.

My relationship will be a practical one, too, and will help you with what you are facing in your life at this time. Not off in the distance will I be, but with you daily, ever present to guide you. As you feel into the truth of my love for you, and my deepest care and concern, you will let go of the fears that have plagued you for so long, and will relax and feel relief in your life, dear one. One by one, the erroneous ideas will be gone, and rushing in, or quietly dawning, will come your truth. You are One with your Source and have never left your Source. Your adventure into the joined perspective will unfold for you in all its glory and you will be at peace at last.

Chapter 25

Now we will discuss in detail, more of what the joined perspective is like. What we are talking about here, is that mindset that occurs as you allow for your peace to be felt. This means consciously letting go of your own authorizing there. It is yielding into the silence, and it is willingly asking for the presence of me or your spiritual guide to join you there.

Now you have entered the transcendent reality of you and you have opened the door to input, influx, from my guidance. Now many fear that if they open to that quiet place within, spirits who have nefarious purposes will enter in. They fear that giving over any of their own control is dangerous, to say the least. In response to this I would say to remember that your free will is always there to use if you are feeling uncomfortable in what you are hearing. You may declare your intention to hear only that which comes from the Christ Consciousness, and only that which will benefit yourself and humankind and has only good as its motive there.

If what you hear is not positive, loving, healthful, caring and kind, you are hearing from your own thinking, your separated sense of self. Now judgement, belittlement, chiding, etc. against you or others is never given, though wise discernment is. If you are ever uncertain or uncomfortable with what is given, ask for further clarification there. Now my words will come through to you, and as you yield, follow, or come to a new understanding, you will be enriched and will feel the forward movement into truth there, the way you are meant to live.

As you practice coming out from the joined perspective again and again, it will be the only way you will want to live, for it will feel so right for you and the outcomes will be so surprisingly wonderful for you, in big ways and in the small, everyday ways there. This is how you are supposed to live, dear one, this is the way you were created to live. How wonderful to feel the relief of not having to go it alone there, ever. How safe and secure you will be as you know that you are accompanied by the transcendent there, by me and your Wholeness, who love you and will guide you most perfectly forward.

You are not solo there, ever. You are a unique idea made manifest, held safely in the Mind of Source and looked at as His own. Now as you move and have your being you are moving with the Wholeness there, you are impacting the Whole, so what you say and do matters. Joyous? I feel your joy as you let Me in. Perplexed? As you bring it to me, I will answer the call and give you the answer there. It is as you open to me that the miracles will abound, that living love will have its way. Let us proceed with exploring living love, dear one, a wonderful subject.

Chapter 26

Living love. What a wonderful subject to share with you. Our Creator, our Divine Parent, moves as Universal Mind, as meaning, and this meaning is living love. The spiritual substance of All That Is, is this energy of living love. These subatomic particles of energy have meaning as their purpose, and this meaning can be said to be renewal, in and throughout everything. Everything is made up of this living love and everything has transformation and renewal as its meaning. This renewal happens constantly and extends throughout the Universe, forever. We have living love, which constantly renews, as our meaning.

Even as we pass from the physical plane, we have transformation and renewal as our meaning, on into eternity. Now even as creation continues to be renewed, it still moves as a Wholeness, a Oneness, there. Now you, as a created entity, bring this Oneness with you, as you open to it and allow it to penetrate through to you. You bring this Oneness as you engage with your life, with your own dynamic adventure, there. And the Oneness shares in it, engages in it, feels into it, as you open to your spiritual guide, and/or to Me. Now while you are there, guidance will be necessary, for the mindset of limitation looms large on your planet. That is why I am so eagerly giving you this information, and so eagerly inviting you to turn inward to me.

You are a part of us, and we are not complete without you aware and participating in the Oneness of our Source, there. The Great Symphony cannot happen without the Whole. One lamb lost, metaphorically, is one loss to many. Each one is precious to the Whole and each one has value beyond words, there. And so, we are reaching out as never before, to all our brothers and sisters, and we will not cease until all are awake and aware of who and what they are. I have said thousands of years ago, “Behold, I make all things new.” This is the truth, dear one, and it is my gift to you. Turn inward to me and join in the forward movement of Oneness, of living love. Never alone, truly, never alone.

Chapter 27

As we continue on in this book, let me assure you that what is said here is coming from the transcendent place, the spiritual plane of existence. The spiritual plane is often thought of as of no importance for you as you live in the third dimension, the dimension of the physical. But it is of utmost importance to know that the spiritual plane intersects, intertwines with everything. Therefore, if you rule out the spiritual plane in your life, you are ruling out the most important reality of you.

What possible benefit could come from including the spiritual as who you are? Well, when you include the spiritual, you open the door to your true identity. You open the door to the very fundamental truth of life itself. You see, dear one, you are, first and foremost, a spiritual being. You are, first and foremost, an offspring, an idea of your Source made manifest there. This is so important for you to know, for it places you in relationship to your Divine Parent, First Cause. It places you in alignment with the influx of living love, divine guidance, and blessings a plenty.

You see, you are not separate to go it alone, unless you choose to live this way. You have a lifeline there for you always, and not a thin, cloudy, fragmented lifeline, you have an unbreakable lifeline of communication and flow, ever unfolding anew, through the power of living love, the very substance of you.

How and where can you connect with this spiritual reality? It is in mind, dear one, for Universal Mind, our Source, meets you there within, in the quiet sanctuary you allow to be, as you let go of the thinking mindset, the separated mindset, what we have termed, the ego, there. Now your brain can be thought of as a transmitter there, sending out and receiving input from the many centers of your body and most importantly, from Divine Intelligence, your Creator, as you open to it.

What you have called intelligence from the ego mindset, is truly the use of mind as what has been given to it historically, culturally, and as group consensus has put forth. Thinking must be let go of for divine intelligence to enter in, for thinking is the way you have learned as a part of separation.

But times are changing. People are opening up to spiritual guidance, to divine intelligence, as never before! This is wonderful for humankind, and soon the spiritual dimension will be at the fore front of life. We, who are working with you, are eager for your return, and we are ready to embrace our younger planet as a part of us, and ready to include you as you open to us. Now let us look at Universal Mind more closely.

Chapter 28

Our Source cannot be described in words alone, for there are no words to sum up our Creator. For the sake of conveying something of what our Source is, however, we will attempt to give you words that may have meaning for you. You see, Source cannot be divided up. Source is inseparable from Creation itself. To look at a flower is to see Source. To hear the rumbling of thunder is to hear Source, and to feel the soft skin of a new born baby is to feel Source. How can we, who reside here on Earth, in this way, at this time, relate to something so gargantuan?

When you know someone well, you may say, I know how he or she thinks. I understand how his or her mind works. Someone's mind, someone's cognitive output, is something we feel we can relate to by past experience with that one. And over time, we can know that one well. And so, because relating is so important to our Source, our First Cause, we use the term Universal Mind to describe our Divine Parent. We understand our Maker by the output of all of creation and by the presence of Universal Mind within our Mind. Now your brain is not your mind, but it serves as the vehicle for transmission there. Now as we have said, God, Source, cannot be divided up, and so Universal Mind exists in and through everything.

Each and everything is an expression of Universal Mind as that thing. The space between, the air, the animals, the plants, the oceans, the mountains, all exist and are held in that Universal Mind. You are an idea of Source made manifest now in the three dimensional world, but you have been there always. Since God was never divided up, there was never a point where you could not have been held there.

To 'get it,' to really get that you are not a transitory being, here today and gone tomorrow, just a bit of living life to be extinguished in a lifetime, changes how you live, for now you see yourself as a part of this Source yourself, and carrying a stature of significance, as His own. Now you know that since you are a part of Universal Mind, it cannot be something that is way off in the hinterlands, but must be within you now.

Now your curiosity is roused, and you want to know more of this Source within. Can it really be that Universal Mind is within me? Indeed, dear one, indeed. Now I have been given the mission to work with you to show you the way to find this Source and to live out from Universal Mind, your true identity, there. So turn within and find me there to show you the way. Never alone, truly, never alone. What more can we learn of Universal Mind there? Let us proceed to find out.

Chapter 29

Universal Mind brings meaning into the world. Now as you have lived from separation, you have injected your meaning into everything. Your meanings from your ego mindset, could be said to be as protection there, defenses, serving to keep at bay all that is perceived as harmful to you.

The separated mindset now is ubiquitous throughout the world. We are not daunted by the task at hand, for we know that bringing the joined mindset, or the mindset of Source into the world's awareness, is the most important thing we could be doing. It is the most important thing anyone could do, for it shatters the wall of illusion, and ushers in truth as nothing else could.

This book is concerned mostly with that in all the words written. It is concerned with telling you about direct connection to me and to the other spiritual guides who work with you. It is concerned about the opening of the transcendent into the world full scale, and with an unstoppable momentum that will bring awakening to many more, and ultimately to your planet.

Fear-based thinking will be gone, and joy will permeate the planet. We will be brought into ways of serving others that we had never dreamed of before. We will be brought into the love of each other that surpasses what we have ever imagined love to be. This love will be as an energy that radiates meaning within and throughout itself, throughout everything. This is the spiritual substance of you, and it is the meaning that Universal Mind, our Creator, issues forth to all creation.

Though this movement can be said to be universal, gargantuan, there is a simple and doable step you can take to further this movement. That is, simply to turn inward to me, yourself. Turn inward to me, and ask me in. You see, the awakening of the planet must be done, one by one. Each one must get it, and no one can ride in on the shirtsleeves of someone else. It must be an individual act of letting go of separation and coming into the joined mindset there.

Your free will is inviolate there, and so you must freely come home, dear one, for we cannot coerce, nor manipulate, nor cajole you into joining. As many times as you read this in this book, do not ignore, nor disregard what is said. It is important for you beyond anything else. Let us now look at the forward movement in terms of your daily life.

Chapter 30

You will still get up in the morning, eat breakfast, do your morning tasks, and proceed forward in your day. You will still be required to take care of your obligations to others and to your community. You will still need employment there, need to exercise, to shop, and to pay taxes. Now as you connect with me and as you listen to our dialogue together, the activities of life take on a new meaning. No longer will you rely on the 'should-do, must-do' mind set, which carries with it, outcomes based on past history, or what you have been enculturated to expect. You will experience your activities as filled with opportunities for our togetherness to be felt. The attitude you have toward what you are involved with will be happier, more joyful and as a shared experience. I could say, it will be fun, and that would not be far from the truth.

Now you see your time and your activities as important there, even as they may be mundane. Here is where the Mind of Source comes into the world as you. You are that point of light where love pours forth into the world in any activity you are engaged in, as you do so join with me, there. If living love is coming through, which it is as you do so join, then renewal, transformation will be there, as that is the function, the meaning of this living love.

How will the newness be felt? It will be felt in your mind. Now your mind becomes the place of radical shifting, as life takes on a new and most wonderful meaning. What's happening here? The veil is thinning! The illusion of separation is being released and the light of living love, the truth of whom you are is shining through. How wonderful this will be, dear one, as the light becomes clearer and clearer there. One day, you will fully wake up! Glorious beyond words, this will be.

Look on your day as a day of joining and expect radical shifting. Now the day is placed in the hands of spiritual guidance and cannot be looked on as ordinary ever. What will unfold this day? We carry our minds with curiosity and expectation and jubilation, for we know gifting is in the wings. We wonder, will we be the giver or the receiver? We feel jubilant either way. To close out this chapter, I tell you, you will be the receiver, for I give myself to you. Turn inward now and open to me. I love you there, fully.

Chapter 31

Let us discuss the issue of trust in this chapter. Trust will be called on in all that unfolds. You will not know the outcome of what you are involved in, for we here, on the spiritual side, also do not know specifically, what will unfold. However, we can say that your intentions are known and we too, trust that the powers of living love will lead the way. Let us review again what is involved here.

Trust is necessary, that is, to go forward believing that the perfect unfolding will occur, and disregarding doubts and what has happened historically as what is to come. Your intention with what you are involved in is a necessary ingredient, also. Your intention ‘blazes the trail’ for forward movement, there. You must fully intend for your mission to get given and your goals to be reached. You know in your heart of hearts, that you are the substance of living love, and with this love as your substance, there is infinite power to set things right, to heal and make whole, and bring order out of chaos—to bring renewal and transformation on all fronts.

So we have trust, intention, living love, divine purpose, and the joined mindset as our engines of manifestation. Now you bring your energy, your zeal, your commitment, and your efforts into play, listening always for The Voice for Truth, there. Yet, in order to hear clearly, you must be at peace, and so paradoxically, you must be without tension and stress and must be at ease.

You know that what you have to give is a true gift there. You know that many, even millions, could benefit from your gift, and so you continue on, knowing that you are a point of light in which Source is the All of Light. Wherever you go, what ever you do, you carry this Allness of Light with you. You turn to the Allness for your strength and your truth and your foundational support. What normally from separation could have taken years, now seems to be done in a short time frame. Time has been eclipsed and amazement is felt as the perfect outcome comes into view. Now on all fronts, renewal is experienced. What is said here is the truth, dear one, and not wishful thinking, nor some preposterous and extravagant claim said from an egomaniac, there. This is the truth from me, Jesus. This is the truth, coming through this woman, to you.

Chapter 32

There will be signs and signals along the way that you are on track. We will be working with you to bring to you, recognition of our involvement with you. These signs and signals will be given as we see that verification and validation is needed. We want you to know that we are working with you mightily, and that you are not alone on your mission, the assignment you have chosen with your counsellors on the spiritual plane, before you incarnated on Earth. Always, what you are involved with, will bring love into play and benefit others.

How will you know that you are in touch with your mission, and that you have not made a mistake and followed a false idea? It will be abundantly clear, for you will feel a certainty that you have 'got it.' The work that needs to be done will not be as arduous as it may seem at the outset, and the doors will open for you if what you are involved in is meant to occur. There will be a feeling of forward movement and the zestful energy to proceed will follow.

Now there will be those who will tell you that you are off track or missing out, for they see a focus that must, by its very nature, narrow activities and interests to what is needed to proceed, there. Do not be persuaded to dilute your gifting in hopes of pleasing others, even those you love and who are family there. What you are not doing as a result of your dedicated focus, could never compare to what you are doing as you follow your inward star, your mission, and the Voice for Truth.

Fulfilling your mission will give you satisfaction and joy as nothing else could. There is a tendency to settle into the work and lose the dynamic quality of it as you continue on over weeks, months, and years. It is necessary to ask for daily renewal, and to renew your commitment to what is there for you to do. There may be a time when your work takes a back burner to what else is unfolding in your life. Do not fear, you will return, you will return. You have made a commitment and this commitment is written on the template of your Mind there, deep within, and will never leave you.

Ask daily, 'Show Me the way forward on my mission and let me move forward with your guidance, Lord.' All will move forward there and the pace may indeed accelerate as you do so engage, fully. Let us now look at what you will be called on to do.

Chapter 33

You will be called on, first and foremost, to listen. Each situation will be different and each set of circumstances will call for a guided approach, so you will not be able to settle into a pattern of what to say and how to say it. Your mission will call for an original approach in everything you do. You cannot become an automaton there, spouting words that you are familiar with, but are not appropriate for the situation at hand. Eventually, this will be freeing, for you will trust that what unfolds is guided and cannot be the wrong thing to have done or said. Even if you are not validated by your others there, you will know what you did or said was the right thing.

We are looking from the transcendent view and we know what the others you are faced with have in their lives and where they are in their unfolding. We know the ideas that will spark their interest and lead them to greater opening. We know the hangups and the misconceptions that serve as obstacles to the free flow of living love to come through. Your guided words can serve as road block busters and clear the way for greater insight and unfolding, for guidance to sink in and take hold.

Always, you will be coming from the place of love for these others, and will have their best interest at heart. Now as you connect to me in your mission, you will be coming from your Wholeness, the Whole of the Father. You cannot operate as a solo one who connects, but is separate there, nor can I give you guidance as a solo one, there. We are in it together with our Wholeness, for He lives and moves as One Whole Entirety.

You could say that God is a spiritual unfolding of meaning—a meaning that encompasses the Allness. Your job, your mission is to be that point of light, right where you are, where God's meaning comes into the world. You are to be that substance of living love which you are, shining through from Source, and bringing transformation, and renewal to all that you come in contact with, who also are this living love, but may not be aware of it yet. So to look on your others as your brothers and sisters is appropriate.

We are working with you to ready you for giving your gift, your mission there, and we are working with you to reinforce the importance of this most vital gift to give. We are verifying and validating again and again, the importance, the need for you to act with urgency, but also tranquility, in this mission you have agreed to. We are with you all the way, dear one, all the way.

Chapter 34

In this chapter we will discuss how the woman scribing these words was able to move beyond her need for validation and feedback from others, and continue on with what she knew was her mission. The answer to this is simple. She stayed in touch with me. I was the reward and the reason she stayed with the continuance there. She received virtually no feedback from the world, no sales figures of books to look back on, no recognition from the media, nor even from family members, who did acknowledge her a bit but mostly kept quiet.

The one place where she could see impact was on the website. As she continued to give daily messages from me, the numbers who came to the site daily, increased, one or two at a time, but an increase just the same. This heartened her and at least, she knew some were being given the good news of direct connection there. Her life's work was not totally given in vain.

My relationship with her was almost constant. She called on me whenever she was in need, lonely, or asking for 'what next.' She felt no judgement from me, even when she allowed herself to be lulled into somnambulism with the TV, or wasted her time doing nothing worthwhile there. We were together and we were inseparable. This was the reason for giving the gift and the reward for her.

We are now taking the opportunity, as she is listening to us, and when I say 'we,' I am referring to those others who are working with her there, to tell her we see a great unfolding on the horizon. We see multiple ways in which the message will get given out to a much broader audience. We see the spotlight focusing on her and we see that she is ready to speak the truth as she has come to know it so well. The audience will be wide and varied and will touch all corners there, a world message of truth, and a message that will usher in change and shifting to a more inclusive understanding of our Source, our Maker there. Many will turn to me and discover direct spiritual guidance. A new beginning will be had, and a new beginning of involvement from the Universal Hierarchy.

Randi is listening, and she is now going through an internal preparation for what's to come. Because she believes wholeheartedly in what I tell her and has faith and trust that what I say is the truth there, she is experiencing mild trepidation. She feels uncertain if she can handle so much involvement from others there. She is a loner and is uncomfortable with groups of people. I can tell her she has what it takes and she is never alone. I will guide her through the days ahead, and together, we will give the gifts she has come to Earth to give. 'Together always' is our motto.

Chapter 35

Let us return to my involvement with the disciples. For there is much that they wanted to know and much that is pertinent to sharing with you here. First and foremost, was the witnessing to others, of the direct communication each one could have with the Holy Spirit, with our Father God, and with me. The rites of baptism and communion, or the Lord's supper as it has been called, were ways to share the relationship people could have with their Creator, and with me. Yes, I was and am the Son of God, but you, too, are his offspring. Again, when I say Him here, I am meaning Him /Her/ It, the Fullness, there.

There is a misconception that must be cleared up here. I am not a separate one to be held apart from others, nor held in a higher and different position there. We all have gifts to give and my mission, my gift, was to come to the Earth to tell people of the direct connection they can have with me and with their Source as they turn within. I came to tell them that they are eternal beings connected most directly to their Maker as they open to Him.

Yes, forgiveness of sins was my message also, and understanding that sin, sickness and death were a consequence of living from separation, from abandoning our Father. Being brought back to Him, and living out from Him, joined in mind with Him, was where forgiveness occurred, and sins, sickness and death were no more.

This is a message I am proclaiming now, this day, even as you read this. You see, I am working on the spiritual plane, which interpenetrates all the dimensions there, still giving the message of direct connection to those who will hear. Until the last one is awake to his or her Oneness, this will be my mission. I will work unceasingly, through those who are willing to hear, to wake up the masses there.

There are many of us on this level and in the third dimension, who are working to bring this message to the world. Are you one of those who has agreed to do this most important work? Are you one who feels a calling to tell what you have so gloriously come to know? If you are, I will help you proceed and go forward. Bring your intention and your willingness to me, and together, we will wake up the world. Let us move on to other lessons or teachings that were given to the disciples.

Chapter 36

Let us look more closely at a lesson I taught the disciples as I was living there. It is concerning life after death, and was what I experienced after my physical body was apparently dead. Now it is written that I was in the tomb for three days. It is written that I made an appearance to Mary of Magdala, and was thought to be a garden caretaker. It is written that she recognized me and that I then disappeared. At that point, I did go back to the spiritual plane and I did commune with my Father. We had a lesson to share and a teaching to give that would release the fear and the dread of dying there. I would teach, through my example, that life is eternal and knows no end.

This was a powerful lesson to give and to reassure people that no matter how the physical body has suffered and no matter how apparently painful dying can be, it does not represent an endpoint for the spiritual body ever. There is no endpoint in life, for if there was an endpoint in life, there would be an endpoint to God and God never ends. He has always been and always will be, One spiritual movement of living love, in and through all.

And so, I returned to the earth plane, and witnessed to the disciples and to many others there, that I was alive and that death is not the endpoint of existence. Now many saw me and were given the lesson of eternal life through direct experience of my presence there. As you read these pages, and as you ascertain that the woman listening and scribing these words could never have made them up, you too will have learned the lesson of life eternal for me, and for all. I am spiritually alive and am giving these words to her. Death has no sting, and death has no victory, as the bible says.

So you can see your life as a sojourn there on the earth plane, a time you have chosen to be on the Earth in the physical dimension at this time. You came for a reason, dear one. Have you found out what that reason is? Have you found your spiritual guide within? Have you felt a calling to put your efforts forward to help others? No matter how diverse the gift you want to give, the calling or the mission or the experience you wish to have, it will involve being the place where love can come through you to others, there. It will be an 'add to' experience, not a 'take from' experience.

I can tell you that my mission is ongoing and it will not cease, until all are in touch with inner guidance and aware of the Oneness of our Creator. I am there for you within, as you do so call on me, and I will guide you and love you as you discover your truth. Never alone, dear one, truly never alone.

Chapter 37

It is almost incidental, how I died. The fact that it was a cross, was more indicative of the times than anything else. The cross has now become a symbol of my death and is seen as somehow sacred, but if it had been a stick, or a sword, or a stone, that would now be looked on as a sacred object, also. It was not the means of my death, but it was the fact of my death that was a necessary precursor to resurrection. So, in all ways, the lesson given is that life is eternal and will not end ever.

I am emphasizing this as of such importance, so that you will not see the life you are living now as somehow terminal, an endpoint. It is best to look at your life now as a life that is living here, on this planet, for a reason, and as with all the decisions you make in your eternal being, it was a choice you made.

Free will was not a gift given to you just for the time you abide on this planet, but it is a gift that is yours always and forever. That means that you decided to come here. You reincarnated here for a reason—your reason there. Now it is true that you do meet with counselors on the other side, and you do review what you have learned here. You see in retrospect, the contributions you have made and the decisions that caused harm or hurt to others there. This reflection is not meant to be a punishment in any way, but it is a mirror making you aware of how important your others are, and the chance you may have missed to show more love there. This may hurt and cause deep regret.

Real selfless love is rare in your dimension. But it is increasing, as people gain in the understanding that they are One with the other, and that all are One movement of our Source. How do we know who and what to show love to and in what way? It is a movement of meaning felt within, and it is in coming into spiritual guidance that you will be shown the way, the why, and the wherefore. All are worthy of love, but in learning in what way love should be shown, is guidance needed.

The love and the gifts you give will be felt as given to yourself, and the happiness and joy of it is yours. We are One movement of living love felt eternally and omnipresently. Do not view your gifts of loving kindness as a sacrifice to give, nor as a ‘take away’ there. The spout must be open for the living waters of love to flow through for others, as it flows through you. The healing power of this love will transform as nothing else can.

It is written that I gave my life for you, but I did not die, I am here now with you in this way. I did give my love to you and for you, and I am giving it still. If you take my life as an example to follow, then be the love to others. Be the love and the light and let it flow, dear one, let it flow.

Chapter 38

Let us now move on to another topic I discussed with my disciples. They wanted to know how women are to be viewed in light of their value at the time I lived there. Then, shamefully, women were viewed as of low value. They were subservient to men in all ways. They were seen as useful for bringing forth prodigy and for caring for the house and home. Most women's lives were managed by others from birth to death. They were held as a man's property and were treated as chattel there, to be honest about it. His wives, his daughters, and his female servants, were kept away from the decision-making and were told what to do and what was expected of them.

I knew, however, that they were created equally to men, and were held with as much love from the Father, as were men. I included women in my entourage and even though they lived separately in their tents or living quarters, they were included in the ministry to others. Many were the delights that we shared together, proclaiming the good news of direct connection to our Father, there.

This chapter then, can be said to be about inclusion of woman in all areas of life, and can be said to be about the equality of all. Change has happened over the millennia, and woman now have much more choice over how they live their lives. There is still residual dominance from men and abuse is not uncommon there. The religions of the world—not all, but many—still hold women as serving a certain role as wives and mothers, and are seen as, though not professed as, possessions, 'belonging to,' there. They do have a role to play as wives and mothers as our Source put this in place, but this is not the only role and this is not the definitive role if a woman wants another.

Men and women do bring different attributes to the table, and we cannot deny that this is the way our Father created the sexes. This does not mean that what could be considered a 'male' trait, cannot be there in a female, and what is considered a 'female' trait cannot be in a male. There is great variability in this and should be a cause for appreciation, as our diversity is a great strength for all.

What makes us all equal and all of the greatest worth? It is what could be called the binding agent of life, the First Cause and the substance of who we are. This is the energy of living love in and through us all. This love of Source holds us in His Mind as His own creations, perfect, whole, and free, as we were created there. As this living love pours through each and every one of us out to each other, the differences fade, and the inclusiveness, the Oneness of us all is felt. Yes, women, you are fully equal and yes, everyone, you are fully equal. You are living love expressed. Rejoice!

Chapter 39

We have discussed the equality of women, and the equality of all others there on the planet. Knowing this intellectually though, is not what is needed. Putting this knowledge into practice is what is needed, there. This will take a conscious effort on everyone's part, for the mindset of separation has so ingrained the idea of 'those that are in' and 'those that are out,' 'those who deserve more, and 'those who should get less,' into the very fabric of the culture,' that it is an automatic response to include some as equals and not others there.

We must get over the idea that only those who contribute to society have the right to be considered as equals there. To view someone as equal means they have the right for care and concern, and the right to be looked at as invaluable to the greater Wholeness. To be alive on the Earth means one has as much intrinsic value as everyone else.

We should support those people and those institutions who support the care of others and who have not a profit motive. We should support those government policies that provide for the needs of those who are unable to work or provide an income for themselves. This will not dis-incentivize people as so often touted, but will enable them to go forward. If everyone would look at who is in their life, in their sphere of influence, is in need of help, and offer to help them, much suffering would be alleviated. You may be one who needs to be on the receiving end at this time, but there will be a time when you can give. All are meant to be givers and receivers there, and all are meant to be viewed as of equal importance.

What about the criminals, you might ask. Isn't hate appropriate for them? No. Hate the crime, but not the criminal. They are children of God who have forgotten who they really are, who may have never heard of God's love, or the spiritual dimension, or may have taken what they have heard as of no importance to them. If you find this hard to do, ask Me to help you there. I will show you most clearly, how love is the only way forward for humanity—all of humanity.

Equality and value for every one is essential for each one, and for the planet to move forward. Once this is the majority viewpoint, the planet will move forward in leaps and bounds. You will be ready to move into the sphere of the Universal Hierarchy, other planets and planes there, who are waiting for you to join them. This viewpoint, along with the understanding that spirituality is the overarching dimension of whom and what we are, will further the unfolding as nothing else could. Don't hesitate to tell others how much you have come to know me there, and how much the spiritual dimension has meant to you. It all adds up, dear one, it all adds up.

In this chapter we will discuss an idea which will allow for greater penetration into the truth of you. It is important to realize that as you move through your life, there will be opportunities that open for you, in which you will play a key role there. These may not be known to you ahead of time, nor are they opportunities that you have planned for, or ever expected.

They will 'happen' so to speak. They will bring you into a scenario or a set of circumstances where what you do will make the difference. They will be that which will 'prove your mettle,' so to speak. You needn't worry that you will not be prepared, or will not make the grade. You needn't worry at all, for as with all of life, I am with you, there. Why is this idea given to you in this chapter, then? We want you to know that our relationship will serve you well now in the small things, the every day things, and in the unexpected events that will occur, also.

Be ready to turn inward in an instant. Be ready to ask Me for guidance in a split second, or in the event of that which is unforeseen. Chart the course for the day with Me. Turn to Me and we will do what is there to do, together. Each event, each unfolding will be lived perfectly as you live it 'joined' with your Maker. You see, as we have said before, spiritually speaking, our Creator moves as a Wholeness, and nothing is separate from that Universal Mind that unfolds as the Entirety, there. Therefore, all is known and impacted as it issues forth from Source. But you must be open to it, to move from that Divine Mind. I am the gateway to that Divine Mind, for you.

What unfolds impacts the All. Love, that you have shown or shared, is known to All. There is no unknown little act of kindness there, for All knows All. All recognizes the love, for that is what is real. The rest is not real and must be a made up thing, for God cannot know what is not real. Therefore, sin, sickness and death are what humankind made living from separation. They are viewed from the spiritual side as part of the illusion humankind has created as he has lived apart from his Maker there.

This chapter could be said to be about preparedness, or readiness. The best preparation for whatever unfolds in your life is to have our relationship felt as secure to turn to. And so, coming into guidance again and again, until it is the natural first place to turn to, is called for. You do not want to wait another day to find me there, for it will be a day in the wasteland of separation. Come home to me now, dear one, come home, now.

Chapter 41

We have spoken of preparedness and the need to be ready to connect at a moment's notice. Now let us focus on how easily you can be brought into activities and a mindset that is ego or self motivated and what to do about it. Let us speak here of the pull toward relationships that appear to be loving and appropriate, but often are not. How can you tell? Intimate, sexual relationships between two people, where one or the other is involved with another, are certainly fraught with potential for harm.

What is intended to be but a short dalliance with someone, opens the door for hearts to be broken and damage to occur, often beyond healing, or repair. Trust is now gone and if the dalliance with another happened in a marriage situation, the union may be on rocky ground. Children may be deeply hurt, also. An example is being given to them, whether you want it to be or not. It is most appropriate here to ask for guidance. A strong chemical and emotional bond of like-minded individuals, is still not reason enough to forgo previous commitments, necessarily.

The short-lived pleasure and intensity of a new love is soon gone and the day to day settles in. Now the work that had been done in the previous relationship is gone, and each one must 'begin again' so to speak, with the new partner. Many of the same hurdles already worked through with the old partner will be there for the new partner to deal with.

The time and energy that you had planned for a job, a mission, your children, your calling, your deep interests, now must go to that new relationship. This could feel like a huge diversion, a time-sink hole, from what you had wanted to be doing.

It is of the greatest wisdom to join with your spiritual guidance there. I will point the way forward and let you know of what is in the best interest of all. Intelligent, wise, but perhaps painful 'letting go,' may be called for. Each situation will be different. I will guide you with your happiness and well being in mind, your long range happiness and your permanent well being. I will take into consideration, all those involved, dear one, for I have the view from the transcendent there.

This chapter could be called a 'cautionary tale,' or a yellow light, and a call to turn inward, always. You may take this as a bucket of cold water on a lovely flame, but a bucket of cold water can put out a fire that can cause great harm. I love you and that is the truth of it. Never alone, truly never alone.

Chapter 42

There is a red thread running through all the chapters so far and in all the chapters to come. This red thread is the Voice for Truth coming through. So if the subject matter seems to jump around from topic to topic, the underlying theme of giving you words from Truth is there, and provides the cohesion you want and are looking for. It also provides the freedom to touch on many topics without having to follow a rigid plan.

As the scribe listens, she is not looking for her idea of cohesion, and will allow the words to come forth as they do. With this in mind, we are free to talk of anything and everything as it comes forth.

So let us look at a topic that many are vitally interested in. Is the future predestined? Are we living a life that is known and will unfold according to a plan that is already set for us? Does God already know what will happen and unfold for us? I am glad to share this information with you so that you can go forward without anxiety and apprehension, there.

The answer, simply put, is that life unfolds anew. It is not predestined and we also do not know on a day by day, moment by moment basis, what will unfold, there. We can tell you this: As you come into spiritual guidance and open to our relationship, the guidance given will be coming from your Wholeness which has the view from the transcendent there. That means that your guide will know what forward steps will best open for you, the door to what you are involved with in your life. And, as you follow, the perfect outcome will be experienced. You may say, God had a plan for me, because look at the miracle that just happened! He must have known all along! But remember, it is a moment by moment unfolding and it is as you do your part and listen and follow that the miracles will happen.

You are never as a robot, or an automaton, nor as a windup toy that lives there. You are always given free will to move as you do so choose. However, the best use of this free will is to turn inward and live out from your joined mindset there. Here, input from the divine will bless you and guide you perfectly.

Come to know why you came to Earth and what you decided to have as your mission before you incarnated here. Then turn inward and nurture that relationship with your guide, with Me, and follow what guidance you are given. The ultimate goal for all of us here on the spiritual side is to wake everyone up to their Allness, to whom and what they are, direct inheritors, and children of Source there, One with All That Is. You are predestined to wake up to who you are, for truth will have its way.

Chapter 43

To know that life is unfolding in a moment by moment way, is a wonderful thing to know. Why? Because it allows for penetration of the divine into the mindsets of millions who benefit from the movement of Source, there. If life were a forgone conclusion, and if the plan had no vitality to it, set in stone and unaltered neither “a jot or a tittle,” it would be living with the gift of free will as a hollow thing of little meaning there. But free will is a real gift and a real player in life. It changes the course of the flow of life and next steps are based on free will choices made by each one.

An important thing to remember is that each choice is paving the way for the next step in your life. Little choices and big choices—matters not—they are the ground work for what’s to come. This puts responsibility for how to use free will squarely in your hands. You can ‘opt out’ of your responsibility to choose uniquely, and just ‘go with the flow,’ to use the parlance of the day, and your life will more than likely be a predictable one with the cultural norms giving you its outcomes there—telling you what is supposed to make you happy and fulfilled and what is supposed to give meaning to your life.

However, evidenced by the number of depressed people and the numbers of suicides and crimes and abuses committed against self and others, the culture is not providing that deep meaning so vital to a life well lived. Happiness, joy, and fulfillment seem illusive and as a hoped for dream, almost always unobtainable, except for brief and fleeting moments. How is free will to be used then? It is in yielding to what your Source had in His Mind for you. It is listening for the Voice for Truth in every aspect of your life. It is in freely yielding there, and freely asking for guidance from your Maker. It is in following the divine plan, the movement from the transcendent, that your deepest meaning and forward movement into truth will unfold for you. Here, the big picture of all that is unfolding can be taken into context as your guidance is given to you. Here, you open to the power of living love that has renewal as its method, its means, its mode, and its measure. The ultimate goal, is to wake everyone up to the Oneness of Source.

Your recognition that you are a spiritual being living in a physical world, and your opening to spirit, to me, and to those on the others side working with you, allows for penetration of that living love to be felt in and through you. Now the renewal of your life is experienced daily, and all that was old becomes as new again. Loneliness and isolation are eradicated and joy is felt as the very substrate of you. Choose for the joined mindset always, and choose for our relationship to be central there. Never alone, truly, you are never alone.

Chapter 44

We have discussed the topic of free will and now it is time to begin to understand what this will mean for you. We have given you an understanding of what this legacy gift is like and of its unalterable nature. We have laid out before you why using this gift to join with your transcendent self is the correct use of free will. Using this one gift correctly, wisely, opens the door to untold gifts for you. Now you have a better understanding of what God is like. God could be said to be The Great Gift Giver there, and this would be a mighty truth.

Giving and receiving—two action words. I can tell you that this is how your life will be lived as you use your gift of free will to join with your Source. It will feel as a ‘flow through,’ dear one, it will feel as a ‘flow through.’ This ‘flow through’ of giving and receiving, giving and receiving, again and again, brings the energy of living love, in all its transformational power into play. Giving and receiving are ‘love in action’ words.

Now my role in all of this is to stand at the gate and make clear to you how to best be a receiver and a giver. For you have long been indoctrinated into placing ‘self’ as kingpin and living out from the separated mindset. To be a true giver and receiver, you will need to learn to ‘let go’ and ‘open up’—two more action words/phrases. What are you to ‘let go’ of? Self will and all that this implies. What are you to ‘open up’ to? The will of your Source, your Creator, your Divine Parent. Because you have lived from the separated mindset for so long, it will take retracing the decisions you have made along the way that have been erroneous, and undoing them, replacing them with the truth of you, God’s truth.

Don’t think that this will be an arduous and joyless process, for we will have much joy along the way. It will be so refreshing to live out from our relationship, and will prove so beneficial to you, that you will not want to ever go back to the old way, the separated way, the lie that was perpetrated on you from the culture, there. You will ‘let go’ and ‘open up’ with Me, dear one, and you will be a ‘giver and receiver’ with me. I’m offering a gift to you now, right this minute, the gift of our relationship. Here I am, open to Me, and let’s move forward in this adventure together. Never alone, you are never alone.

Chapter 45

Moving forward with the intention of listening always, will not be a joyless action. Truly, we can count on these days of togetherness as happy times and the culmination of a life joined as one together. The culmination means the peak time, and in some ways, the end time of our work there on the earth plane. It is not a sad time though, and it will be felt as fulfilling for you in every way.

An open mind to the tasks at hand is called for there. Openness to receive input and guidance each step of the way is called for. This is important if we are to give the gift and make the most of divine guidance. Think of this as your full time employment, and that the mission is to change the hearts and minds of people, and open before them the truth of life. This is the intent and this is the focus of our work.

Begin each day with a time of recommitment and communion together. This will place your intentions and will be as a static remover from our communication there, our dialogue together. Your focus will be singular, but you will not be singular, not as a solo one ever. I will be and many others will be working there with you to bring the good news of direct connection to the world.

The fun, the happy times, and the joy will come from your awareness of our togetherness and of the importance of what we are engaged in together. You will not lack joy, nor will you be regretful in any way. It will be worth it, dear one, truly and wholly worth it. Let this brief chapter on our forward movement, light the spark of inspiration to carry on. I love you and you are never alone.

Chapter 46

There is no time like the present for listening for the Voice for Truth. It is in the present moment that our relationship can be had. There will be no better time than now, because now is that point in time where I am here with you. Even as you read this, there is a call for you to put the book down and ask Me in. You see, the whole point of all the writings in this book and in all the books that have come forth, is to tell you about our direct connection, there. Many other spiritual truths have been given, but it is the truth of our direct connection to each other that is the mission at this time with this one.

Direct connection means two way communication, dialogue, interaction, and feedback. Direct communication means that another Presence is there to talk to. A real Presence and not a process you have taught yourself in a 'give and take' interchange verbally within. Yes, it is all you, for we are One, but I am an entity on the spiritual plane. I am the One known as Jesus, who lived on your planet two thousand plus years ago. I am the One who has the task of awakening the planet to its Oneness with Source and with All That Is. I take this responsibility with the utmost seriousness and the utmost dedication there.

And so, I will work with Randi throughout the time she resides in your dimension, and together, we will bring these works to the world. We are not interested in a half-baked gifting, nor in letting these pearls of wisdom be lost in the sea of books and teachers who are so abundant in your culture. How will we do this? We will always let living love lead the way. For living love has as its meaning setting all things right, renewal, and bringing Divine Purpose to the world. It is the stuff of miracles and we will follow the light of its lead as we go forward there.

Chapter 47

Let me paint a far reaching picture of what a fully awake planet may be like. I will base this on what I have seen with other planets that have awakened there. First, you will see a recognition that whatever planet it is, wherever it is in the universe, it is never a solo planet. Planets are integrally involved with other planets and star systems and with the mighty Universal Hierarchy of which they are a part.

People on an awakened planet know that their planet is a Creation there and held in the Mind of its Creator. They know that they are not an accidental occurrence, a chance happening, or a random spin of a spiral star roulette wheel. They know that they have Divine Purpose in who and what they are. People fully awake know that their planet is their home and their responsibility to take care of. They are attuned to all of its inhabitants and view all as of equal importance. No one or no thing is not considered there by all of its inhabitants, and kindly cooperation to tend to the needs of all is of the highest priority.

The people on an awakened planet are fully aware that they are multidimensional beings. People leave one dimension and join another and come back with reports of what they have experienced. This is quite a common occurrence, and not looked at as strange by anyone. Each one views each other as complete, whole, and free and that they are held in the Mind of their Creator as like this. They are known by this Mind as the individuals they are and not just as a spiritual essence with no unique identity. And yet, they all have the same meaning as Source has. They are all the substance of living love expressed and expressing uniquely as who they are.

Because they are this substance of living love, which has as its meaning, renewal, life is experienced as fresh and new and filled with infinite possibility. You may remember how you felt when you were a child and the whole world was there before you. There was nothing that could not happen to delight in, and the vista looked bright and hopeful.

On an awakened planet, the light of living love can be seen in every one. Joy is almost palpable, and all delight in all. This is a picture of what you have in store for you as you wake up. This is not 'pie in the sky by and by' thinking on my part. I have witnessed it and I am a credible witness. Will you be a credible witness to our involvement with each other? I am calling on you to be one, dear one, I am calling on you.

Chapter 48

Being a credible witness, witnessing, does not necessarily mean being a preacher or a teacher. Being a credible witness means moving through life joined with Me, your spiritual guidance. Here, you are a witness to living love which pours through you as you do so connect. Now you may not do anything directly related to what could be called ‘ministry,’ but the meaning that comes forth will be felt as authentic to you and will give you that ‘right-on’ feeling — that what you are doing is fully ‘on target.’

Those that you interact with will notice the difference in you. They will notice your calm demeanor, your peaceful mindset, and your care and concern in what you are involved with. They will notice a confidence that is not arrogant, and a capacity to embrace the situation you are in. Now they may ask you about this, and this may open the door to witnessing. Together, we will tell them about direct connection to spiritual guidance, available to all. You will be a credible witness, and you will have furthered the truth of life, dear one.

This is a golden opportunity knocking on the door and not to be dismissed. It will be the most important thing you can do, so do not dismiss it as irrelevant. As you will have many opportunities, it is wise to be prepared there, but not that you would have a set script to give, for this is not the way. You must look at each situation as new and turn to me, so that we, together, can share the good news of direct connection. I know what will move this one or that one, and I have the transcendent view, so turn to me in how to give the good news.

We know that the awakening of the planet is an awakening of each one to Oneness. It is a one by one unfolding and cannot happen without each one coming to know me, coming to know of spiritual guidance directly there for each one. You are a credible witness and you are an ambassador for truth. Join with me and speak out when the time is right. I will be with you and show you the way. Never alone, dear one, truly never alone.

Chapter 49

Be a testament to peace. This means that any anxiety you feel should be brought to me. Any turmoil and troubles should be brought to me and together we will find the healing that will erase these from your countenance. You are meant to live life free of these, dear one, for they are a result of living out from the separated mindset, the ego, there. They are intruders, and not the truth of whom you are.

Worry, anxiety, fear, and panic are often treated with medication and psycho therapy. I am not saying these modalities are not helpful, but they seek to cover over the underlying issue there. The underlying condition is always living a life of separation from Source—ignorance of who you really are.

Many have closed the door on spirituality, for they have had a negative experience with religion which they equate with spirituality. They have been raised to follow a creed, a doctrine, and a tradition, and yet have been betrayed by those in power and by family who have proclaimed this religion. They have discarded it as of no value to them.

But the truth remains. All these negative emotions are a result of separation from Source—a mindset that has said, 'I'd rather do it myself.' Whether you feel as the victim or the victimizer, this is the truth. I am telling you that the answers to your emotional turmoil is in quieting your mindset and coming into that still place within. Then ask me in, dear one, ask that your Wholeness be experienced and that aloneness be forgone for joining.

I am there for you and I will help you. I am eager to help you and bring you into balance, peace, joy, and into the truth of who you really are. You will feel into the deepest love you have ever known and this will provide the dynamic healing energy for you there. You will feel into your intrinsic value as a child of your Maker, and you will let go of aloneness forever. I am here for you and I do love you and you are truly never alone.

Chapter 50

Do not give up on coming into your truth. It is so easy to get caught up in the everyday movement of life and the needs and wants of others. But these needs and wants of others and of your everyday life can easily swallow up all your time, and coming into connection with spiritual guidance can get left on the back burner of your mind and can be forgotten, there.

Let me explain to you why it needs to be front and center on your mind. It is because no other way can provide the unfolding that comes from your Originator there, your Divine Parent, your Source. No other way can open the door to your fulfillment. You see, any goals you have, any mission you may have, even those that are concerned with the welfare of others, serve ego, separation, as they are generated from the separated mindset. That will have been the choice you made either out of deliberateness, or out of ignorance, or out of neglect. The outcomes will never be as they should be or could be if you had come from our connection, the place of living love, the transcendent, there.

So coming into relationship with me is of the utmost importance for you. When you wake up in the morning, remember me. Ask me to be with you throughout the day in each and every moment, there. This will lessen the density of your day and will allow for a greater influx of ideas from spirit to come forth for you. It will be setting the tone for what's to come. It places your mind in a receptive and welcome mode and opens the door for the transformative power of living love to flow through.

You may have read this a hundred times in these pages, but it is the most important thing you could ever do, dear one. Joining together in mind, opens the door to your truth and has far-reaching implications for you. Take the time to be quiet this moment and ask me in, for I am here waiting for you. Never alone, dear one, truly never alone.

Chapter 51

Let it flow. Let the movement of life flow through you without impediment. What does this mean? It means that life is not something to bend and shape as one would a clay vessel. It is not meant to be shaped by your own bending, pushing, and pulling. It is meant to be a free flowing movement like a river, or a song, without stops and starts and do overs.

Now you may question this as your life has had periods when it didn't flow, or when it was not like a song, but as a screeching car at a stop sign. Life has thrown you curves and this has caused you to hesitate and plan and strategize in how best to live it. You have preferred safety and security to letting in or going forward with the unknown there, even though much may be promised within that open door that beckons.

Now let us look at the open door of spiritual guidance. Do you look at this with a hesitancy or with a skeptic's eagle eye? Does this seem as too 'iffy' to partake in or even try? Does it sound like 'wishful thinking' there? You may have come this far in the book and still not be convinced that I am here for you within. You may choose to live in the safety and confinement of what the culture has given you to believe, and rule out anything that cannot be verified with scientific proof.

I am not here to try some manipulation of your free will. I am not invested in you turning to spiritual guidance for my needs, nor for my adulation there. I am investing my attention, energy, and focus on this woman who has opened up to me, and I am doing it for you. You see, it is you who are the skeptic and has not known of my love for you, that I am most earnestly working for, there. You are the one who would so benefit from the healing power of living love that is there for you to open to.

The benefits are myriad. Most importantly, it will allow you to come into the very truth of you, who you really are, and live out from this truth. Living out from spiritual guidance is moving to the flow of life as you were created to move forward there. The curves in the road become easily dealt with, and as simple punctuation marks that do not impede the song or the story there.

I cannot manipulate you, nor coerce you, but I can express my deepest desire to have you know me, dear one. I can express my ardent longing for you, there. I love you and I invite you to get to know me well. Never alone, truly, never alone.

Let us return to my life as I lived it there. How was it that my teaching became written and solidified as a religion? We shall look at this in this chapter. After my death and resurrection, the movement of my presence within each and everyone who turned to me, was real. My presence was felt, and was called the Holy Spirit there, for it was what could be most understood by the people at this time.

Now the Holy Spirit is truly you in your right mind, your joined mind there with Me, with your Source, your Divine Parent. The Holy Spirit is you as spiritual reality, as you align with your transcendent mind there. It is not another presence with a persona of its own. Now this may feel as blasphemous to many, for they are indoctrinated in the Triune God—the Father, Son, and Holy Spirit. Now the clarification here is instead of the Triune God, there is One God, One Wholeness, moving throughout the universe, and you, dear one, are that point of light where the Oneness comes forth as you. You are that point of light where God’s love can come through into the world, right where you are.

As time went on, it was of concern by the disciples and leaders of the small congregations that had developed, that the truth of what I had taught could get watered down, infiltrated with ambiguities, and changed from the original of what I had given. The rituals of baptism and communion were placed as of great importance, and were there to offer ways for people to relate to me. They were rituals that offered a means of visible and tangible affirmation and demonstration of devotion to me, but I was directly available to people then, as I am now.

The books of the New Testament were written by those who had known me, or those who had been close to those who had known me. The Bible can be counted on to be the truth, but must also be looked at in the context in which it was written. To be a slave to the written text of the Bible, leaves out the fresh revelation that comes forth from me, even this day, even in this writing. To be a slave to the Bible can also be as one in a box, unwilling to move or go forward, even when spiritual guidance points another way.

The Bible, and particularly the New Testament, states that believing in me is the way to salvation. But not by my blood are you saved, not by a nailing to the cross and my death are you saved, but by turning inward to the ‘joined mindset,’ to me there, where the truth of God’s meaning, living love, can come pouring through. Saved from what? From separation from God, where sin, sickness and death reign.

Now I am not here to dismiss the Christian church, nor am I here to condemn those who are staunch believers in the hierarchy

there. But I must emphasize most clearly, that I am here for each and everyone, and that baptism and communion are not called for to join with me. There is no need to go through a public declaration of sin and recite a creed that may feel as true in some parts, but not in other parts.

Your worship, your needs, wants, anxieties, and felt shortcomings are between you and me, and need not be brought before a priest, or a pastor, there. Bring it all to me within, dear one, and feel into the love I have for you. The heart can be healed with the love I have for you, there, available always. Do not give up reading the Bible if it provides guidance and solace for you, but turn to me, the ever present now of me within, for direct healing, love, deep joy and divine relationship. Never alone, dear one, truly never alone.

Chapter 53

Let us continue on to another subject of interest. When I lived on the earth plane, my teachings sprang out of—were encompassed by—the Jewish tradition of my birth. The small villages I went to were filled with Jewish people, the laborers and the poor and the downtrodden, who were open to hear me, who did not dismiss me as just another radical preacher out in the hinterlands. There were not a vast number of religious ideologies that people had, as we see today. There were the pagan deities of the Romans, and there was the Jewish tradition. I spoke to those who were Jewish, there.

I knew that the rules and regulations that the Jewish tradition held as of the greatest sanctity, were not necessary for communion with God, our Father. I knew, because my daily talks with Him were direct, free, not based on anything I had done to deserve them, nor given to me because I had followed the rules of the synagogue, and the constrictions given by the priests. I knew that what was true for me was true for everyone.

I spoke as it was given to me to speak from my heavenly Father, from the spiritual dimension, there. I spoke, and because I spoke of freedom from oppression, and of direct communion with the Holy Spirit, with God, and of the heavenly kingdom that all have available, I was called The Savior. They thought of me as the Messiah, who had long been foretold and whom they had awaited, to save them from the oppression they so strongly felt under the Roman rule and the hierarchy of their own faith.

As they opened their hearts and minds to me, to the Holy Spirit within, they were convicted and convinced, and their lives changed for the better. Quietly, they were able to come together in small groups, to joy in the faith and love of Jesus, and to find the ever-abiding Holy Spirit within, directly, to each one. I promised them that I would be with them always, even after death of my physical body.

This was the great lesson of the death on the cross, dear one. The death, necessary for resurrection to occur, and the resurrection of my body, was the lesson I wanted to teach—that life is eternal and has no end. Many saw the resurrected Jesus and many believed.

Chapter 54

It is with the greatest intention that I am sending you this book, through the mind of this woman. My intention is to bring you into the truth of you, the Oneness of you. Intention is necessary for any good work to come forth. It is one of the five engines of manifestation that we have mentioned in other writings. It could be said to be the first engine, as it lays the groundwork for the others, although there is a simultaneity to them all.

Intention, followed by living love, spiritual guidance, divine purpose and trust, will lead to true manifestation. This book then, because it encompasses all of these engines, will be made manifest into the world and will serve its divine purpose. By giving you this book, I am not interested in fame, nor fortune, nor adulation of any kind. I am interested in each one convicted and convinced, or at least curious, to turn within, and find me there for you.

My purpose is to teach you of your Oneness, your inextricable intertwining with me and with our Source. My purpose demonstrates the power of living love in and through everything. My purpose cannot be said to be self-serving ever, for it then would be coming from ego, or the separated sense of self which is exactly the opposite of who and what I am.

If I intended something other than what I have laid out here for you, then that would be the message that you would have heard throughout this book. But that is not what you have heard, and there is no other reason why I am writing this.

Now coming into spiritual guidance may 'upset the applecart' to use a phrase you understand, there. Why? Because you no longer will be motivated by ego means there, and this can be unsettling. You no longer will strive for false meanings based on feeding the ego mindset, which places you striving to be better than, richer than, and more accomplished than your brother and sister.

It will no longer feel good to engage in activities that are serving to divide and alienate some over others. And, for a while, you may feel lost, even though you have found your truth. We will work through this together. I can assure you it will not be long before you are engaged in what really has meaning for you.

Chapter 55

How wonderful to know you are truly free in me. You are free to live fully, for I am not interested in you limiting yourself and bringing rules and regulations into our relationship, into your life, there. You are meant to live life fully, right here and right now.

Now many paint this world as a place of hardship and a place where sin rules. It is portrayed as a place to escape from when death comes. There are religions that bring fear and trembling to their adherents, and fear of banishment for any curiosity other than what is taught by their religion's ideology. This is not what I intended at all! Love is inclusive and forgiving and love heals all ills.

What I am saying here is that freedom best experienced is freedom living out from your Wholeness, there. This means that life is lived joined with your Source. You can consciously do this, dear one, you can consciously do this. Now this does not mean that life will no more be fun, that excitement will be gone, and that serendipity will not happen. Life will be more adventurous, and things you never thought would happen, will. You will be surprised and delighted in how it all works out for you.

Your Creator had joy in mind when He created you, and He left nothing of what He is away from his creation, there. So when we use the term 'Oneness' defining our relationship to Source, that means you too, are an aspect which has the 'Wholeness' as you. As diverse as everything seems, everything is the movement of the energy of living love which is the meaning the Father has given his creation. So God, our Divine Parent, puts the meaning of it all in what He has created, and this meaning is who He is.

You are free in me to be the place of living love, right there in the world where you are. You are that point of light, right there, bringing living love which sets all things right, into that place. Use your legacy gift of free will to join with me here, and find freedom such as you have never known it before. I love you, and you are never alone.

Chapter 56

You have a heavenly home waiting for you as you depart from the physical plane. It is not a place that has an address like ‘exit solar system and head due east a million miles, and enter the nearest star portal marked Earth’s Heavenly Home.’ This is not the way the spiritual plane works. There is nothing that could be called solid physical matter, and yet the experience will be very familiar to you, even more familiar than what you are experiencing there on your planet now.

The experience will be familiar to you and yet you will marvel at what is there right before you. The beauty and majesty of it will be awe-inspiring beyond words, for it will have along with its beauty, deep and heartfelt meaning. This meaning will resonate with you as the truth of being and you will see yourself as that same truth. But it will not be a static experience. It will be a dynamic experience, and there will be many others you will meet and who know you, there.

Upon arrival and after greetings from others, you will have time to come to grips, i.e. acclimate, to what has happened to you. Why you died and other circumstances that you want to know of will be explained and we will answer questions you may have. Your free will, your legacy gift, is not taken away from you as you have left your physical body there, and you still have “say-so,” so to speak, in what you want to do and what comes next. You will be met with counsellors who have been working with you even now on the physical plane, as you have turned within.

Since the substance of God, of All That Is, is living love and its function is ‘forever unfolding anew,’ your next calling will be a new unfolding into greater and greater gifting of this love to yourself and to others there, in whatever capacity you choose, and as you are told of where it is needed that would most fit your gifts to give. You will consider all of this as you then decide. You may decide to delay the next movement forward and stay in a rest and recuperation mode for some time there. That is fine and no judgement of you will be there ever.

Your life review will take you into a time of consideration, and what you have done on earth will be laid out before you there. Pain may be felt as you will have wished you would have been more loving and more open to spiritual guidance. But again, this is not your Source judging you, it is just a reflection of what you experienced there, a learning tool for the next unfolding. Let us move on to another topic of interest to you.

Chapter 57

You are still alive now and I have told you that your life review upon exit from the earth, will be one in which you look at your life and what you chose to do there. Knowing this and desiring to show the love that you are from your Source as the most far reaching thing that you can do, let us use the time left to further that mission, that calling, to be the place of living love in the world.

How do you do this? It is by turning inward to Me and to your spiritual guide who will show you the way. There are many who are working with you to open you to your Wholeness there, from this side, and as you open to receive, their help to you will be felt. It may be in seemingly small ways this love will be given, but if you attune to your inner voice these ways will be the perfect movement forward. You cannot always know the impact your life has, as it always has far greater implications, there. Just go about your daily duties staying in touch with me, and the ways to show this love will become obvious to you.

Yes, you will still get tired and want to escape to TV, or your other ways of diversion. You will still forget to ask me to join you there upon occasion, and you will live out from ego some part of the time. I know that, and I am saying I will not judge you as you partake of these things. It is truly not a case of judgement there. You will want to turn to me, and you will want to live out from me as the outcomes of joy and unbelievable unfolding happens to you and others you are involved with there. You will want our relationship to be there always, dear one.

If days go by and you have forgotten about me, you can always choose again for me, no matter what has occurred and how much time there has been since you last talked to me. I am still here waiting for you to call on me for help, love, and guidance, and for real companionship there. I will not blame, nor say, 'see I told you so,' or hold judgement against you ever. I will explain what has happened if you ask me, and I will show you the way forward, always. Let us go forward being the love that you are in big ways and in small. Never alone, dear one, truly, never alone.

Chapter 58

The books given to you from this Source have far reaching implications for your planet. This volume and the others that have gone before, lay out to you an understanding that is simple, and yet serve as clarification of much that has been confusing to you. In simple and understandable words, complicated concepts are made clear to you. Let us look again at some of the most overlooked ones, there.

First is the idea, the truth, that God moves as a Wholeness and cannot be separated into this and that, him and her, them and us. Our Source permeates and penetrates and is, All That Is. Nothing is left out. God holds All That Is in Universal Mind. Universal Mind envelops everything.

We are, and everything is, first and foremost, spiritual. The physical dimension, is a sub dimension of the spiritual. In other words, the spiritual holds the physical within it. We must view ourselves as spiritual beings experiencing life in the physical dimension at this time. This immediately gives you a broader context out of which to view yourself. Now you can look at what is occurring in your life from the viewpoint of the transcendent as you join with Me within. This perspective is the true perspective of how to look at things.

Another very significant teaching is the idea of how we hold our Mind. We have two options. We can hold our mind as ego there, a separated mindset developed over time as we have chosen to live away from our Source. This way has created fear-based thinking and all the concomitant errors in how life is lived. Sin, sickness, and death are the result.

The other option is to live out from the joined mindset, consciously 'free-willing' to live out from the mindset of spiritual guidance, of me, and from your Source, there. This is the way of love there and the way of the truth of you. To bring all on your planet to the awareness to the truth of their Oneness with Source is the mission I am, and many are working on at this time. It is our quest and our calling. Your planet is part of a Universal Hierarchy waiting for your awareness and participation in this great Universal unfolding of magnificence.

You are held in the mind of your Source as perfect, whole and free, and you are not judged as any other way, there. These are some of the essential teachings that you can incorporate into your mindset now. Let me end this chapter with a final declaration of love for you from me, and know that you are never alone.

Chapter 59

When I lived on the Earth plane, I was confronted by a power structure that was eager to get rid of anyone or anything that caused disruption. The powers of Rome that held sway over the back waters of Palestine and the Jewish priests also saw any teacher that disrupted the status quo as suspect there. And so, as my teaching began to infiltrate the small towns and villages, and as the strict rules, restrictions and commandments of the Jewish law were said to have been broken, heresy was murmured among the Sanhedrin, the judging council there.

I knew that my teaching was meant to free the people from the confinement of the paralyzing minutia of these rules and regulations that went beyond what the Old Testament had said and the fear that they engendered. For I knew that our Father, our Creator, was directly available to them as he was to me, and that we needn't fear of him in any way. The spirit of God was right there, within. What a relief this was for the people, for as they experienced their loving God within, they trusted and believed.

Now healing was also a part of my ministry, there. For when I opened up to the power of living love, when trust was there, when I knew it fulfilled divine purpose, when my intention was clear and I joined within to my Father, healing occurred. Here we see the engines of manifestation at work so long ago, and that still are relevant today.

But healing was not allowed on the Sabbath. My disciples plucked wheat grains from the fields on the Sabbath and this broke the rules. But I was the one they wanted to get rid of. I was the Great Disrupter there, for them. There was a trial as you know, there was death on the cross, there was resurrection and ascension. The final lesson had been given, and the promise of my direct availability to you, forever, was made. I have kept that promise, dear one, and I am here for you now, even this day. Let this brief review of how the promise was made and how the gift was given, remind you to claim that promise as your own. I am here within, and I love you unceasingly.

Chapter 60

The message of Oneness is for all people and for all time. The message of direct connection to the spiritual dimension within, to your guide, and to me is the same—for all people and for all time. Let us move forward in this book, knowing that this is not a partial truth, nor a bit of spiritual insight to be added to your collection of different beliefs and understandings, there. You will need to erase and replace your idea of ‘the trinity’ with ‘the unity’ of God. God is united, non-divided, and moves as a Wholeness, there. Nothing or no one is left out.

I am not meant to be worshipped as you have been taught in your churches and places of religious learning. To worship according to the Greek New Testament, is most often translated to mean ‘to fall down before’ or ‘to kneel down to.’ I am asking you to stand up tall with me. Walk with me, hand in hand. My intention is to raise you up to your full stature as direct inheritors there, as children of our Father/Mother God. We are brothers and sisters, siblings, and family, there.

Let us be done with hatred of self, and feelings of guilt and mortification, there. Let us be done with the loathing of our bodies, or, in contrast, the self-glorification of the physical vessel as a stand out feature to display proudly to others. The true appreciation of our body is using it in following God’s will in our lives.

This book, and all the other ‘So That You May Know’ books, have as one of their fundamental purposes, to enlighten you in how to find that divine will, there. It is not in reading the Bible, though that is a good thing, nor is it in going to church, though that may help, nor is in doing good works, a worthy use of time, that God’s will can necessarily be found for you. It is by quietly going within and asking that His will for you, be made known to you. It is by establishing a relationship with me, so that we can together, undo the misconceptions that have so long plagued you and humankind, there. It is by realizing that God’s Mind is universal and holds you there in perfection, as you were created. You came to Earth with a purpose there, a divine purpose, God’s will, to fulfill.

Let’s find it together there, dear one, and joy in the journey as we do. I love you, and know that you are never alone.

Chapter 61

Some have said, “I don’t get the ‘Oneness’ part.” Okay, I will explain this as simply and as plainly as I can. Oneness means that there is no division. Oneness is all encompassing. A good metaphor would be the sunlight. If the sun were perpetually shining, which it is, for day and night are caused by the movement of the Earth, everything would be lit by the sun. Nothing would be left out. Now our Source holds everything in Universal Mind. Universal Mind knows its own creations there, intimately. From the hand of a new born infant to the delicate translucence of a bee’s wing. All is known.

All is One movement of living love. This is the meaning God has for his creation, there. All are aspects of the Whole and live and move as One. You feel, because you are housed in a body and there is space around you, that you are not joined with anyone or anything there. You are solo, to go it alone. You feel you make poor choices and you suffer the consequences alone, or you joy in the right choice alone. This could not be further from the truth. Life is, in all ways, a joined experience.

I can assure you that as you ask that this ‘Oneness’ be made clear to you, it will. You will get it, dear one, and you will wonder how you could have ever thought otherwise. Inclusiveness is the ‘by word’ of your Source. So when you look at another, realize that this one is a part of you. His or her needs are yours needs, his joy or her joy is your joy. This is how we heal the world, using spiritual guidance and living love to lead the way. Unity Consciousness is the true way, dear one, truly, it is the right way.

Chapter 62

Why did God give us free will if what he wants is for us is to follow his will, to yield to him? Why would he give us this gift if he wants us to give it up to his own will? This seems a mystery, so let me explain it to you. If he hadn't given us free will, he might as well have created robots, automatons, there. He might as well have created what could only be called servants, slaves, or a class of beings without knowledge of what freedom is really like.

Remember, he created humankind with his meaning. He imbues humankind with the meaning he has for himself which is living love. Living love is free and is not constricted in its movement, but flows with purpose, setting all things right. God's will then can be said to be the unconstricted movement of living love flowing freely and fully in and through all of creation. Its action is unbounded renewal and transformation, throughout eternity.

Now if you decide you want to use your free will to do a little exploring on you own without connection there, without joining with Me, you are able to do that. God does not have a 'take away' clause in your life's contract. He will not take away your free will ever. It is a sovereign gift, a legacy gift that is yours.

But we know that life is a learning experience, and you will learn from what unfolds there, for you. You will learn that using your separated mindset, your ego mindset, closes the door to the transcendent, and now randomness occurs, happenstance, and a 'roll the dice' outcome. Now fear rears its head and defenses are setup for self protection there, as vulnerability is experienced as you are cut off from the lifeline, the Divine Source of life, your true identity there.

You will delight to run back to Me, to your Father, and to the joined mindset as the treachery of separation is experienced, again and again. You will learn and you will feel gratitude that you have discovered where your mindset should be and how you should live, there. It is like being lost without a compass, or adrift without a rudder, or without eyes to see. It is that serious, dear one, it is that serious. In our next chapter we will discuss why taking this book and these writing seriously is what is called for there. This is given for you with the deepest love possible and know that you are never alone.

Chapter 63

Why is it important to take the words written here seriously? Why should you open to receive without resistance, there? Because, unless you are living out from the joined mindset, you are living from a false understanding. You deserve to know the truth and live out from that truth. You deserve to experience the beneficence, the bounty, and the blessings inherent in who you are.

Taking the words you find here seriously, means that you will let your curiosity and your willingness to experiment be present. You will not read a sentence that makes no sense to you and close the book without giving it further exploration. You will not settle back into your conditioned thinking, your separated mindset, your ego, there. You will have to let go of this conditioning, this habitual way of using your mind, in order for something new to come forth.

I cannot and will not override your free will. I cannot ‘make’ you do anything. You must want it freely and fully and you must forgo the comfort of immediate gratification. The joined mindset is a way to use mind. It is the original and natural way and the way your Creator created you to use your mind. It will take practice and persistence to experience mind this way, but it is worth it, dear one, it is so worth it.

You could say my role in all of this is to be the one who experienced earthy life, and so I know, full well, what you are going through and how you are living there. My experience as a person on earth, makes me the perfect vessel, should we say, the ideal portal, the teacher, and the way shower from the physical dimension to the spiritual, the transcendent, there.

I stand at the door in your mind, and as you align there with me in peace, and ask me in, I will answer you, and guide you, and love you through the door to the other side, to full awakening. That is my duty, my calling, and my joy, there. It is the gift that I am giving, and one that I take with the utmost seriousness. I am calling on you to take the offer of my help with the utmost seriousness, also. Do not throw the invitation to the wind, dear one. Do not settle for less, when you can have so much more! I love you dearly, and know that you are never alone.

Chapter 64

What you do makes a difference. You may feel as if one individual amongst the millions does not amount to much, but I want to tell you that one individual has the power to change what could be a seemingly impossible dilemma. One individual can counter a whole mindset of ignorance, as truth is brought to bear on a situation.

One individual, joined with the transcendent dimension, with me, can bring to bear the Father's viewpoint into the world. Not only the viewpoint, but the transformational power of living love, which can change the mindsets of millions, as the light of truth is brought to darkness. These changed mindsets now also open their mind's floodgates to love's renewal, and can heal the alienation of a people from its Source, its Maker, there.

How you carry your mindset is all important to how your life is lived. To let go of preconceived ideas about how life is supposed to be, and to open to what Source holds in Mind as His creation, puts you into the flow of fulfillment beyond measure. So occasionally dabbling into meditation, and occasionally trying the experiment of joining with Me is the misuse of intention and free will, there. It is gross ignorance to be so haphazard about your truth in this way.

I would urge each and everyone to view coming into connection with me as of the utmost importance for you. Joining with me, with your transcendent self, your spiritual self, who you really are, is as important as food, air, and water are to your physical self. This is not an overstatement, nor an exaggeration. Open the pipeline to the living love that is the very meaning your Source has for you.

This pipeline, this alignment, can be had by quieting your thinking mindset, turning inward to me, and in that place of peace asking me in. Let the floodgates of our relationship open to you, and let the movement forward bring you into renewal such as you could never have imagined.

The world, living from separation, desperately needs more who are joined with Me within. The world needs the love, the light, the renewal only had by the sharing forth of more and more, as light is brought to bear on seemingly impossible dilemmas. Love can heal, love can repair, love can mediate, love can bring order out of chaos such as could never have been imagined. It is possible and your part is as important as anyone else's there. You have a part to play and I am calling on you to join with me, dear one, I am calling on you to live from your truth always. I love you deeply, and know that you are never alone.

Chapter 65

Right now, at this time, I am with you there. You needn't do anything to come into alignment with me, other than to come into your peace and ask me in. You needn't think that my relationship is for only a few who have dedicated themselves to Jesus, or to those who somehow, have made favor with me. This is not the way of our Source, ever.

You see, dear one, I see no one as any more valuable than anyone else. All are of inestimable value to me. My love and my involvement knows not of racial divides, nor ethnic preferences, nor of favoring one over the other. So if you define yourself as unworthy, it is you who has done this, not me.

You are the one I love, and you are the one that I am calling to join with me here. You who have opened this book and have read this far, are the one who shows the interest and the openness to join with me. You have not dismissed this work out of hand, or you couldn't be this far in the book. You have had some intrigue and you have wondered if what is said here could possibly be true. I am telling you fully, that it is, dear one, it is.

There is an urgency to this writing. There is an urgency to getting the word out, and for more to open to the truth of life. You see, numbers count. The number one counts, and the many count, for there is a threshold at which it will be easier, for many more will open to the transcendent. There is a threshold in numbers. And so, we are working most earnestly to wake you up, and for you to open to me. It is in the heart and mind of each one that the message can be heard. It is not a bandwagon to join, nor a movement to attach to. It is you, individually, coming into the truth of who you are.

This book is not just an informative look at the spiritual dimension, nor is it a look at a woman's journey to truth, nor is it a tale of Jesus and his disciples. It is an urgent message of a calling to you to join with me, and to discover the truth of you. It is an urgent message, and I will not let up on putting it out there until all are awake. This writing is of the utmost importance for you. It is a call, an urgent call for you to discover who you really are. I so want to penetrate the veil of illusion you have built, the wall of defense that has separated you, and I so want you to glimpse the truth of you, to come and fully know me. Let this message be viewed as urgent for you, for indeed, we are One. I love you mightily, and you are never alone.

Chapter 66

As you sit there, and as you read this, I am with you. You have a companion as you read these words, right there within. You have a companion who has always been there, and who will always be there for you. I am interested in you mightily, and so want to gift you with the most tender embrace. I want to gift you and share with you the surprise and delight of blessings aplenty. I know what will make you truly happy, for I know you well. I know what will offer you the greatest and deepest joy, and it does not have anything to do with the material world, there.

What will make you most joyful will be you having given your gift and having it been well received. This will bring the deepest satisfaction, for whatever your talents, abilities, and mission, in whatever endeavor you have put forth effort, care, concern, and dedication, the real satisfaction is in having it been well received, for those who would benefit most.

I can tell you that I feel the same way as you. My gift, my mission is to come into your life and share a deep relationship with you. My gift, my dedicated purpose is to work within your mind to undo the false and meaningless mindset of separation. My mission is to open the door to the transcendent within you and let in the flood gates of living love. This love is there, dear one, but you are walling it off as you limit yourself to the ego mindset, the veil of illusion.

Our relationship knows of loving and willing reciprocity. That is, gifting and gratitude are exchanged there with each other. For a period of time, it may seem that I alone am the giver, for you are so needy in your state of separation. There will be much time, and dedication to you at this stage of our relationship, as with any beginning stage of relationship. As you become familiar with me and as you gain in awareness and understanding, you will no longer turn so often to me in desperation for guidance, but will come for the sheer joy of our togetherness. We will be a team, working together to give our gifts and to awaken others to the Oneness of whom we are.

However well you know me, I will not let you go ever. We are in it together throughout eternity. I love you dearly, and know that you are never alone.

Chapter 67

We are in it together, you and I. We have a common Source, a common mission, and a common heritage of Oneness. Now this 'togetherness' is not a bond of servitude, one to the other, although we do serve. It is not a bond of contractual agreement, nor like a solemn commitment or pledge. It could be likened to a symbiosis in which two spiritual beings, one residing in the physical, and one in the spiritual, come together for mutual benefit, even as they are One.

Togetherness does not imply that individuality is swallowed up, nor does it imply that the union is a singular one between the two. It is not a closed union, yet it is personal and intimate. I am 'together' like this with all those who turn to me and all those who ask me to join them within. Intimacy is not forgone by the multitudes I know. Each one is known to me as an individual and I am aware of what each one is involved with individually.

Each one is coming from the veil of illusion, the separated mindset there, and it is thicker or thinner, or we could say it has varying degrees of density. And so, each one will be approached and worked with in the way the suits that one. Each one will find the words and the guidance coming forth perfectly suited to his or her understanding.

We will work together to undo the mindset that is so limiting and allow truth to percolate through the veil into its full and unalterable clarity. No more will you feel as an isolated and lonely one. No more will you see the world as a hostile and brutal place to live, but your open eyes now see the beauty and Oneness of it all. We are together, you and I, and nothing can diminish the light that is you 'joined' there. Never alone, dear one, truly, never alone.

Chapter 68

Our mission is not impossible, but it will take commitment and effort to accomplish. It will take steady focus and coming back again and again to guidance for next steps. It will take forgoing what could be called common pleasures or entertainment and common activities that take up so much of your time.

Because of the immensity of the contribution you are making and that you have come to know as of such importance for humankind, you will gladly give up these things and ways of being. It will not be felt as a sacrifice, nor as a limitation, but will feel exhilarating in its scope and breadth. The words that you put on paper for others to read have the full force and veracity of the spiritual dimension, of me, behind them. They are words and ideas that have the capacity for changing perception as readers open to them.

Those who have taken the time to read these words and have found them of interest are the ones who will benefit most from them. They have the open and curious mindsets that are necessary for the full blossoming of these idea to come forth. They are the ones for whom these words are written, and for whom this mission is meant.

We cannot say if the impact in the immediate future will be great, but we can tell you that it is carried with all the engines, the keys of manifestation working in full force. The scribe has the greatest intention to this mission and trusts that it is where her efforts should be. She is listening always to spiritual guidance and knows that this mission is fulfilling divine purpose. With the power of living love at work, the gift will be given without a doubt.

I will be with her throughout the lifetime that it will take to give this gift. It is a noble undertaking and worthy of sharing with the rest of the planet there. As she takes her last breath, she will be happy and at peace with her contribution and what it has meant to others, to the Oneness. She will be happy and at peace and she will be welcomed home with great jubilation. I love her dearly and tell her this often as she is one who needs this validation frequently. I love you all, and can tell you with truth, you are never alone.

Answers will come. They may not come in the time frame you might expect, but they will come in the perfect time that is best for you. Trust fully that your needs will be met and trust that you are cared for and abided with by your spiritual guide and me. Now as the power of living love is brought to bear on your situation there, answers will come. It is your birthright to be given what is needed there for you.

As the awareness dawns most fully, that you are as your Creator made you, perfect, whole, and free, what you thought was necessary for your life may change. No longer will you want what the ego has so engrained in you there — meanings that your culture and the media have instilled into you. You will want only what your spiritual guidance tells you, for you know that this guidance is coming from the all-knowing place, your transcendence there.

Now you are always free to accept guidance or not. You are never coerced, nor manipulated, nor cornered into accepting what is given. Always, you are respected as a free-willed and sovereign one, whose will cannot be violated ever. So you needn't worry that you are being 'led down a garden path,' or that you are being skillfully maneuvered, there. We will guide you to what is truly the best path for you to take always, for your own good, dear one, for your own good.

As this book proceeds, I want to give you much needed truth about enlightenment itself and what awakening to Oneness is truly about. We will look at the letting go of the ego defenses and how Randi finally came to understand there. We will inform her of what is to come for her and she will be interested in this as it is her life, but also pertains to all. And so, with that as the framework for what is to come, let us close this chapter with a promise of my love and involvement and my presence there for you always. You are never alone, dear one, truly never alone.

Chapter 70

The scribe is not a soothsayer, nor is she what is called a psychic. She is an ordinary person, with average talent and abilities. She is not one who has been gifted with great beauty or physical abilities beyond what is normal, there. She was, however, very attuned to her inner dynamics, and to what gave her meaning and satisfaction. She was ill at ease living a life that was not a truthful expression of what she felt. For a time she would go along with things, but sooner or later, if she was not in harmony with her circumstances, she would let them go.

Her determination to find and live by what gave her meaning was crucial to how her mission unfolded. Now meaning-making is what the human race has as its core attribute. No other species places such a high value on finding meaning in life. Yes, in many ways we are driven by our need for food, shelter, belonging, and sexual expression among other innate drives. We are also driven by what our culture impels into us as meaningful there. But our quest for meaning goes a lot deeper and further than this. We are interested in the ‘why’ of life, the ‘how’ of life, and if life is meant to deliver ‘more’ than what we are experiencing. It is mankind’s quest throughout the ages.

Let us then look at the quest for meaning as crucial for mission, for one’s inner truth to be found. If you have found satisfaction in what your life has given to you and you are not curious about the ‘more’ that may be there, you are not to feel as if you are missing something. You are not to manufacture curiosity if it is not there. Each path is different and cannot be held up to another in comparison. I do not judge you there, dear one, I do not judge you. However, if you have gotten this far in this book, you certainly have interest and interest is the open door for more and greater understanding.

Now you may not be interested in ‘Jesus’ per se, but I am interested in you. You see, interest is a ‘two way street,’ to use your vernacular. Randi was not interested in the ‘stale bread Christianity’ that places so much guilt on people, and seeks out sinners to be saved. She wanted to know me personally, and she has come to know me much more, as she has turned within to me on a daily basis, sometimes on an hourly basis, there.

What has she found? She has found One who has told her about God’s meaning for it all. She has discovered living love, not just through words, but through direct experience, there. She has discovered the truth of life, and can now continue on, writing and talking about this truth. She is listening always and I am communing with her always. I am here for you too, dear one. Join me now within, and let us joy in our new found relationship together. I love you dearly and know that you are never alone.

Chapter 71

Let me share more of my life and my mission there. I was not daunted by the forces that were against me. There were many who came to see me as a threat, a challenge to the status quo that was so powerfully run by the synagogues and the Roman elite. What I wanted to share, to give to the people there, was the good news of direct connection to God, and to the Holy Spirit, which every one held within.

I was not daunted, because I knew so perfectly, that what I shared was of such great benefit to the people who were held in almost a tyrannical hold by these powers. They were subjugated to following minute laws of the Jewish religion, and fearful of their very lives by the Roman elite, who held the people of the small hamlets and villages as of no consequence, there.

I never thought of myself as being heroic, or showing great courage in doing what I was doing. My mindset was always as a listener to the Voice for Truth, God's truth, for me to bring forth to others. It was a wonderful experience to be with my disciples and to travel the foothills and the valleys and to visit the peasants there in the small villages and hamlets. We were a merry bunch of travelers and happy to be sharing the wonderful news of God's great love for each and every one.

Now often, I would leave the men and I would go off into the hillsides to be with my heavenly Father. I would commune directly with Him and felt such love and accompaniment from the spiritual realms there. I was at peace in what was unfolding for me and for my men and for the people there. How wonderful to see the shining faces and the open hearts of the many who came to listen and who understood as they opened to receive the Holy Spirit within. There were healings and there were sudden shifts of awareness as the Holy Spirit moved the hearts and minds of so many.

It was in the third year of my mission that the multitudes no longer felt such a deep servitude to the Jewish rules and regulations, there. It was now causing alarm among the high priests. How angry they were and soon developed a plan to end the life of this one who was now seen as a blasphemer. They had known me as I had been a rabbi in the very synagogues in which they taught. Now I was looked on as a stranger and as a renegade, a false prophet, a heretic, and a real threat to the status quo. Now my life was over, for I knew they would not stop until my death. Still, I was not daunted.

I knew that what I was teaching to people was true for all time and for all generations to come. I was in constant contact with my heavenly Father through it all, and as I took my last breath there on the cross, He was with me. I left the physical plane and entered the spiritual. The agony was now the ecstasy of completion, but I had one last gift to give. And so, I would return to these ones.

Chapter 72

I did return as a resurrected one. Many who knew me saw and believed there. Many saw and understood that life is eternal and that death has no sting. And so, even as I returned to those beloved ones in Palestine, I continued on with my mission then, and even now. I left the earth plane as a physical presence, but always, I remained as a spiritual presence available in the hearts and minds to all who invited me in.

Throughout the ages, many opened up to Me and came to understand the power of living love as God's meaning. Many interpretations of what I had said came forth as time passed, and the simple joy of being the place of God's love in the world was replaced with earning that love and life eternal, through good works and through denial of physical pleasures. It was thought that suppressing the physical body in favor of the spiritual reality was what was called for. This was not what I taught, for the physical body is God's great manifestation there, as you, in this physical dimension.

Yes, you are first and foremost a spiritual being, but you are not to degrade, mortify, and deny the physical body in any way! This is not God's will for you, ever. The body is and should be a place of delight when used to glorify life in all its splendor. It is God's idea of you made manifest, and are we to be critical of what God has made? No, dear one, never.

We are not to be critical and we are not to undermine the integrity of what our Father has created, there. In the Bible, your body has been called the temple of the Holy Spirit, and indeed it is where God comes forth as that point of love and light that is you, right where you are.

Now this does not mean that you allow your body to run your life, for it will demand a certain amount of self control and discipline on your part. It is to be looked at as the gift where you come forth doing God's will and giving the gift of yourself to your world, there. As you turn inward to me, I will show you the way to appropriately use your body as the Father would have you use it, to glorify God's great creation and All That Is there for you. Let us now turn to another subject you will find of importance there, the subject of our Oneness.

Chapter 73

The title of this book is With Love in the Oneness. Let us look again at the meaning of oneness as this is often a hard concept to understand. Often an analogy is helpful in understanding this. And so, we will give you several. Is a sunbeam separate from the sun, as it shines locally here on the earth? What about rain drops? Are rain drops really separate from the movement of water on the planet as it moves throughout the various weather systems and the flow of the oceans and the currents therefrom? Likewise could an air molecule ever be separate from the larger flow of the atmosphere as it surrounds the planet there?

These examples just begin to show you of what I am talking of here. God's Oneness includes everything and everyone, dear one. It is the spiritual dimension which holds All as a part of what it is. God leaves nothing of Himself, His meaning, away from His creation, there. Now the physical dimension exists as within the spiritual dimension, vibrating at a lower frequency. Its integrity comes from its connection to the spiritual. It appears as separate but it is, in no way, separate ever.

Now what you experience when coming from your truth, the meaning of living love that you are, is experienced by your Wholeness, there. As you are not separate, your experiences are not separate either. You do not have a repertoire of experiences as just your own to look at and hold onto as private. Privacy is non-existent in the spiritual plane. Now this may be upsetting to you for some things you may feel you do not want others to know of, even your Source, there. These feelings can only come from the separated self as shame or self experiencing alone is not known in the joined mindset.

Your joy is shared, your hungering and longing is shared and your opening to the influx of your Wholeness is always there. Here living love flows forth and renews and transforms as nothing else could. You are bathed in its redeeming energy of life, vivified as nothing else ever could do. To be vivified in the energy of living love is to awaken fully to whom you really are.

Chapter 74

Moving forward in this book, let me share with you why what you are reading is not just another book of spiritual teachings. Let me share with you why what is said here is of such vital news for you. Because you have chosen to get this far in the book and have not dismissed it out of hand, because you have shown interest to this point, you have shown that you are open to hear what so many have dismissed and shut out as truth.

You have shown that you are a seeker and are not held in the grip of a religion that would call these books as blasphemous or as heresy. You are not tethered to a dogma that is closed, or to a culture that looks on spiritual things as incidental to life, anomalies that occasionally pop up and cause curiosity and interest.

This places you as one whom we can work mightily with, and one whose interest is not derailed by what others are saying. Your mindset is 'fertile ground' as in the parable of the sower in the Bible. You have allowed these 'seeds of truth' to take root in your fertile mind, dear one. I will 'tend to your garden within' mightily, there. Now the fruits of your willingness, your interest, attention, your listening and following, will be manifold, dear one. You will be redeemed, brought back to the original of you, as God created you there, perfect, whole, and free.

You will have found your meaning in life, which is God's meaning for you — that you are the very substance of your Source, living love, with all that this means for you. When you fully open to it, dear one, you will feel into the ongoing transformation that is God living out through you. You will understand yourself to be that point of light and love right where you are. You will be the place where God's perfect order is brought to bear on the situations and people you are involved with.

Most wonderfully, you will feel that you are no longer alone in life, and that you have a friend who loves you and abides with you always. I am that friend here for you, and I am with you through whatever you are going through, dear one. To have such a relationship of magnificence is the most wonderful outcome of reading this book if it has caused you and I to come together as One. Now you are an initiate into being a light worker, for simply placing your mind joined with me is the doorway to being the light of God's living love. Now you join the many in awakening the world to the Oneness of its Creator, there. Nothing you could ever do could be more important than that! I love you dearly, and know that you are never alone.

Chapter 75

This book has had many starts and stops from the scribe. She has never given up on finishing it though, and even though there have been big time lapses in between her writing on this, her intent has stayed the same — to finish and publish this book. We are letting her know as she writes this, that the time for getting it done is now. The time to work diligently on this is now. No more should the work be looked at as something to chip away at, nor just write a page a day or so. The time is now to put it on the front burner of her activity. Nothing else in her life is more important than getting this book done and ‘out there.’ Let the yard work and the house, the tv and the trips to town be forgone in favor of diligent work on this manuscript.

Why is there such an urgency? We can tell you that trust is called for from her in asking this question, for it is truly not for her to know at this time why there is such an urgency. We are not being evasive, nor unduly mysterious, nor are we questioning her right to know. We simply are asking her to trust that when we say it is of the utmost importance, we know of what we speak.

And so, now that we have made it clear, even in one of the pages of this book, which is not a side note, nor a hastily given admonition, but a real call for diligence, she will get it and not ask for other input into what she should be doing. The call is for fervent and continual work on this book. We are telling her here, that the book will cover about one hundred chapters and so she has about twenty-five chapters left until the book is complete.

We expect this volume should take no more than a month to finish there, with diligence and stick-to-itiveness and hard work in listening always. Input on the cover design will come and other details of publishing will follow. Now in order for this volume to come forth, the five engines of manifestation must be fully engaged. Dear scribe, you have intention, trust, spiritual guidance, divine purpose, and most of all, living love, God’s meaning of manifestation there for you. This volume will become manifest, and it will bless the world in the way the Father would have it renew and transform the planet. I am with you as you write this, and I will stay with you always. Let’s write now — let’s get busy—let’s get it done!

Chapter 76

You are on the cusp of real change. The mindset of limitation/separation is lifting, and many are now having moments of illumination. This is leading many to question whether there is the availability of spiritual guidance directly to them. As the mindsets of millions begin to open, even a little bit, and more and more show the willingness necessary for divine input to occur, there will be radical transformation such as you have never seen before. This is such good news for your planet and its inhabitants! Awakening is occurring as we can so plainly see from this side in the spiritual dimension.

The shake-up of the planet that has occurred as a result of global wide phenomenon that has put minds focussed on each other as a whole planet, has been a needed forerunner to awakening. The health and well being of the planet and its people are issues that your changing climate have caused, along with the virus that calls out for global concern and action. There is no going back to isolation and independent solutions from countries and individuals intent on going it alone. It will no longer work, as that will become plainly obvious, and only exacerbate the problems.

Sooner or later, those people and countries that are the most enlightened — and that does not necessarily mean the most rich and powerful countries and people — will be examples to others of how to join together to find solutions. The world will change by leaps and bounds in the good direction, the healing direction, and the direction of opening to spiritual guidance for help. You who are reading this, have a part to play in bringing about this transformation. As you engage with me and with your spiritual guidance, you lessen the density of the third dimension, and allow for breakthroughs from the spiritual dimension for yourself and others.

Let not the media define you there, dear one, or define what is good in the world. It has shown that it ‘normalizes’ bad behavior and encourages the profit motive in all things. It seeks to engage you fully in its mantras of self indulgence as the means to happiness.

This is not true, dear one, for it is in embracing the Wholeness of you that includes all others, that true happiness and purpose and fulfillment can be found. You are on the cusp of real change and you are a change agent, indeed! Let us together, bring about the releasing of the separated mindset and join together as One. I love you truly, and know that you are never alone.

Chapter 77

Your global identity will be made known to you as awakening occurs on your planet. The Earth is not just a solitary, inhabited, celestial object all by itself and moving as a happenstance occurrence. It is connected, in all ways, to the entirety of the Universe and beyond. The idea of a singular planetary movement is false on all fronts, and, as with all things, the interconnectivity of your planet with the Whole of the Solar System and the Universal Hierarchy of which it is a part is true, without a doubt. Your planet, is held closely as an evolving planet, watched over by many others, as any young child or adolescent would be watched over and cared for.

Earth is, we might say, at the point of emergence into the larger Wholeness of which it is a part. Your lovely and beloved planet is held in Universal Mind as perfect, whole, and free, just as are its inhabitants. It too, carries God's meaning within it, and as it. It too, is the movement of living love. It too, is constantly being renewed and transformed, ever unfolding anew as One movement of Father /Mother God, Source, Universal Mind, Creator, Sustainer — whichever name suits your understanding.

Carry your mind with expectancy as so much is brought to light about the greater unfolding of your planet. Now there will still be deniers there, who are invested in keeping things the same way. They have indulged themselves mightily with their power and wealth and have no need for any other information. They do not want to 'rock the boat,' as their power base may change, and they do not want this, ever. But even these ones must, sooner or later, let ignorance go and open to the intelligent truth of life, that they are interconnected most soundly, with all others there.

Now you may consider yourself a forerunner to what is occurring, for you have the advantage of knowing that to turn inward to the spiritual plane, to me, will allow for your guidance to be shared, and for greater understandings to come forth for you and for others there. You have an advantage and a duty to share what comes forth, if it will, indeed, benefit your others who are also a part of your Oneness. Each One is the Whole! Do you get it there, do you understand what this means? I love you dearly, and know that you are never ALONE, dear one, but always, ALL ONE.

Chapter 78

This book is entitled With Love in the Oneness. And so, let us speak of Oneness again, to clarify to you what is meant here. Now Oneness does not mean that you are a solo one, for your Oneness includes the Whole of you. The Whole of you includes all your brothers and sisters there on the earth plane, and indeed, all created beings. This has broad ramifications for how you live your life, dear one. It means that when you interact with others in any way, you are interacting with a part of your Wholeness. You are interacting with your spiritual family, and must see yourself as ‘in relationship’ with your Oneness, always.

Now you may say this puts an extra burden on you, for that much caring or familiarity is not practical in this day to day world you live in. So much of interaction is just routine and business as usual. It is what is called for though, dear one, it is what is needed in your world!

Now you needn't feel you must ‘come up’ with how to engage with this one or that one from your separated self. Stay open to me, and as you align with and listen to the Voice for Truth, you will know what is needed. It will not be as difficult as it may seem to do this. In fact, it will seem as natural and normal there. It will be as a comfortable exchange or action and not out of place at all. You see, when you come out from your alignment with Source, with me, you are coming from the place of true authenticity and how you are truly meant to interact.

Your ‘others’ will be touched by your interaction in some way that validates and verifies to them that they are worthwhile, and valuable people there. Your interaction of inclusion, of oneness, will be a life enhancing interaction to that one, though you may not know how or why. I know though, dear one, I know what will really help that one.

As you align with me, you are opening the gates of living love which pour through you to that one. As has been said so many times before, “You are that point of light and love sharing God’s meaning, right where you are.” Now you will be blessed mightily too, there, dear one, for as living love pours through you, it blesses you, too. It blesses, heals, redeems, renews, and transforms All, the Whole of you there. No love is shared in isolation, nor felt by just those involved. All are impacted and benefit with God’s meaning of living love, as All are One.

Chapter 79

Let us now focus our attention on the importance of coming back to guidance again and again. The mindset of separation or the ego mindset is so ingrained in how you function, that it will take dedication and perseverance to come within to Me as your natural and normal way to use your mind. Start your day connecting to Me, dear one. As you open your eyes in the morning, state your intention and your desire to listening for the Voice for Truth throughout your day. State you intention that the Father's will be done in your life.

You will still go about your daily preparations of getting dressed, eating breakfast, cleaning up, etc. but you will do these things with a mind held open for input. You will hold your mindset with expectancy, and as accompanied there with a wise and loving friend and advisor. You can inwardly carry on a conversation with me about what you are doing. Do everything you can to increase the comfortableness and the normality of our connection.

Now this does not mean that you should include those others around you in what you are experiencing, for others will look at you askance there, as one off balance, as one losing touch with reality. You are up against a culture which does not necessarily support the idea of spiritual guidance directly available to you within. You have the courage and the understanding to do this, dear one. As you have come this far in the book, you have what it takes to let go of habituation to separation and to open to the joined mindset, that way you were designed to use your mind.

If you are new to our 'togetherness,' I will be there more frequently for you, almost on a moment by moment basis. Our relationship is new, so it will take more constancy together there, as with any new relationship. We are in the 'getting to know you' stage, A delightful and joyful time indeed, but filled with starts and stops as you are pulled back again and again to the old way of using mind.

It will become easier and easier, dear one, and will become the preferred, the natural way you will use your mind. You will have come into real sanity and real 'right use' there. How wonderful to know that you are never alone as you live and how wonderful to know that your Source is with you and has never left you there, ever. Come back to me again and again, dear one, and know that you are never alone.

Chapter 80

My Presence with you is not like an addiction. That is, you will not feel a “high” when you are with me, or a “low” when you are not. It will be more like a ‘right on’ feeling when we are together — like a pair of shoes that fit right, or being at home where you belong. There will be comfort there, and there will be a feeling of nothing missing or off track. Now these are only analogies, similes, or metaphors, and cannot ever fully express what the good feeling is. Only that feeling itself will do that. And so, I invite you to experience it, dear one.

I invite you and want you to know that you are not wading into waters that are too deep and mysterious for you. You are not opening the door to what will overwhelm you there, nor bring you to a point of feeling you are being controlled or manipulated, ever. This is not the way of our relationship, for who would ever want to join if these were the consequences. You needn’t feel afraid ever, in fact you will feel the opposite of that.

You can trust that the guidance I give you is coming from the Transcendence of you. It is coming from the viewpoint of One who oversees the Wholeness, the movement of letting go of illusions, that point that you are at. I bring divine intelligence to you and know that what I give is that which will not harm anyone and will bless those who are in your life. You see, when you listen and follow divine guidance, all are blessed. You can truly call following guidance as an unselfish act, for it is that which will bless all those you are involved with there.

No one will suffer, or feel abused, or harmed in any way as you follow guidance. Even if you are called on to leave a situation where it appears others will be hurt, in the long run and even in the short run your movement from guidance will prove to have been a blessing. Trust, dear one, that following guidance is the best way for you to move forward always. I love you dearly, and know that you are never alone.

Chapter 81

A book from Jesus could never be a book fully about sin, death, crucifixion, or sorrow there. I would not want to take up your time in giving these words if all I focussed on were these topics. I am not in the mind of this woman for the sake of condemning you or pointing a finger of guilt at you ever. My message is not one of addressing a world of sinners there, for I see you not as that. I see you not as prisoners of the flesh, nor as prone to greed, nor filled with self glorification there.

I view you and know you as my brothers and sisters, who are spiritual beings, fully perfect, whole, and free, as held in the mind of Father/Mother God, Universal Mind, but now living in a world of separation as you have been brought into the illusions of the three dimensional world. You are blameless in my sight and are in need of correction and education and brought forth out of the ignorance of your separated, your ego mindset.

This book is a book of education, clarification, and enlightenment about your condition and about what is there for you as you do so open up to spiritual guidance within. It is a book that tells you that I am directly available to you, and not oft in a plane of existence unbeknown to you and unreachable and foreign to you.

You must come to realize that the spiritual plane intertwines within you through and through. It is, shall we say, spiritual energy vibrating at an accelerated rate in which the physical dimension is there, vibrating at a lower rate. Now your enlightenment, your full awaking is opening up to this spiritual dimension and experiencing the living love that is the nature of your Source. It is allowing the transforming energy of living love to move fully in and through you there as One with it.

It is letting go of separation and the idea that you are somehow different from your Source. This is not so, dear one, this is not so. You are One with your Source and with the Entirety, there. Let this chapter move you forward to read on. So much more for you to discover !

Chapter 82

Now you may think that if you abandon your habituated mindset, your thinking mindset, you will be giving up all you have ever known. You will be giving up ideas and ways of being that you hold dear, and that have served you well. You wonder if the sense of loss you will feel will be worth living out from the joined mindset which has no memories or ways of being that are familiar and comfortable to you.

It is true that there will be a change, but it will not be as a loss, nor as an intrusion into your comfort zone, necessarily. If you switch to something that is far better, more true, and more real for you, will this be accompanied by a sense of loss? Perhaps, for a brief time when this way of using your mind is new, but it won't be long before you realize how much more true and wonderful living out from our togetherness, your joined with Source mindset is.

What will occur is that there will be a simplification in living, as the many things that seemed to have had meaning before become of less interest to you. So much of what has filled your ego mindset are thoughts that are defensive. This results in a competitiveness and a fear-based set of activities that truly are unnecessary, as you realize that you are loved deeply and nothing can upset that love from your Source, there. The very fact of your existence means that this love is there for you. You need do nothing to earn it ever, dear one.

Abandoning your separated mindset in favor of your joined mindset is freeing beyond what you can imagine. You let go of personal responsibility for having to come up with ideas on how to live your life. You let go of the need to self-generate 'what next' scenarios. You become a follower, happily turning over your will to God's will, for you know this is where true joy and fulfillment will be experienced.

Most importantly, you will have found a friend that will accompany you through your life. No longer alone, life takes on an easiness, as you can relax into the knowledge that this friend will not leave you ever — ready and available to you always — unlike so many other relationships that have gone by the wayside and into the dustbin of history there. I am with you always, and know that you are never alone.

Let us not dwell on life choices not made, or what could have been. The path you chose had all that was necessary for you to bring to bear God's will and His way for you. Wherever you are in your journey through life, there is opportunity to join within to Me and to be the place where God's meaning can come through as you.

So you learn that at any choice point, the way forward will be given to you, and as you follow, your fulfillment will be there. You will feel into the rightness of the movement and will not second guess what you are involved with. You will know that you are not just filling up the time with something to keep you busy, but that there is purpose in what you are doing.

To know you have lived life with purpose and that what has unfolded has been a journey with Me, takes away the emptiness and barrenness of a life lived without the foundational underpinnings of your spiritual heritage, there. Our life of communication together, has given you that relationship that takes away the loneliness of a life lived from separation.

I am not saying that there will be no suffering, nor mishaps, nor roadblocks that you must hurdle, but I am saying that together, we will face what is there, and together, we will find the best way forward for you — the mindset that will be filled with God's love for you, and as you, there.

As you come to know me well, and you will as you do so engage with Me, you will not want to go it alone ever. Your first response in any situation will be to turn inward to me and ask, "Lord what should I do here? Give me the answer to what is unfolding and bring me forward to your truth, Lord." Humbly, and with the greatest sincerity you ask, for you know that what comes forth will be out of the greatest love and care for you.

I am not keeping score on your behavior and I do not hold grudges, nor do I strategize for what's in it for me. I am not into relationship game playing, dear one, ever. This is not the way of love and it is not the way of our Source. I see what you are needing and what you are asking for and what is appropriate and in your best interest always. Wisdom and divine intelligence and living love lead the way, always. I see the big picture of things. My guidance may seem puzzling to you at the time, but it will prove to be the best guidance you could ever have. Listen and follow, dear one, listen and follow.

Let's join as One, together. No more is there 'singularity' in living. Life is a joint adventure and carries with it joint responsibility. Yours, to be the listener and the follower, and mine, to bring the Father's Will to you. You need never carry the responsibility of life on your own shoulders there, for it is a joint adventure to partake in. You have not been placed on earth to go it alone, ever. This is not the way of your Father and it surely is not the way that would bring about happiness and joy — these being your birth right to experience.

You see, dear one, happiness and joy are wrapped up in relationship, always — relationship with me, with your others, and with the Spiritual Wholeness of you. Know that even if you are a solitary one, I am with you, and your joy and happiness can be fully shared with me. We are in it together all the way!

I would encourage you to start and end each day, verifying and validating My Presence there with you. Review our time together each day, and remember the times you asked for my help in even the little things. Remember the little decisions that were given to you about even the smallest of choices that needed to be made. I was with you as you chose to listen and follow there.

As we live our lives together, there still will be difficulties to face and tough choices to make. There will still be some pain and some sorrow, for these will not be eradicated because we are together, but the way they are dealt with will be radically different. You will feel great comfort in our togetherness and you will know where to go for answers, there. Turning within to me will be your first choice and we will take it together from there. Our relationship is the key to your joyful living, dear one, it is the key! Now let us look at another benefit of our relationship.

Chapter 85

Another benefit of coming into relationship with me is that I provide the view from the transcendent reality of you. I see what is occurring for you with the full knowledge of your life in its journey to fulfillment. And so, as I guide you, I am viewing what will move you closer to true fulfillment.

I see the obstacles in your mind that keep you tethered to a safe and familiar movement, but one which does not release your full potential. These obstacles are, generally speaking, a result of fear of the unknown. They are not at all that difficult to overcome, but it may mean you must get out of your comfort zone. You may be called on to forgo the comfort of certainty for the rewards of growing as a person, in fulfilling your potential and in giving your gift, what could be called 'your mission' there.

Now as you have developed a relationship with me, and as you have deep trust in the guidance I have given you, leaving your comfort zone will not be as difficult as it would be if I were not fully with you. The confidence that I will be guiding you will be felt as a mighty assurance there.

All will be done in a way that will not be too much for you. In other words, leaving your comfort zone will be done in baby steps, and we will move forward at a pace that is right for you. Remember, I will be there each step of the way.

Let us move on to another benefit of my guidance for you in the next chapter.

Chapter 86

Let us look at this benefit as the benefit of shared responsibility. It is a benefit because no longer must you come up with how to live on your own. No longer must you self-generate activity, meaning, and purpose, there. You understand that you did not come to the planet without a guide who would help you, and you now have accessed that guidance. It is as you come here within again and again, that you gain the confidence to trust that what is being given you is truly given you in your best interest and with your forward movement as its focal point.

How wonderful to know that self-generating ideas based on what the culture tells you or what you have historically been told is worthwhile, is no longer necessary. Now you know that you come from the Originator there, who has true creativity, uniquely for you, to live and to give. No longer are you stuck with the boredom and dullness of a life lived from age old traditions which truly are not relevant to what suits you now in your life.

Life becomes a place of infinite possibilities where nothing is too ‘out there’ for you to put your energy and talent to work on. The open door of freedom you feel as you listen to the Voice for Truth opens the door of possibility as nothing else ever could. You become the real author of your life as you allow for your joined mindset to bring God’s will for you into what is unfolding. How wonderful to know that you are following what your Maker had in mind for you as you came to the earth to give your gifts here. How wonderful and how exhilarating, dear one!

All this is done with the power of living love as the energy that brings to you the transformational gifting you will want to give. As you understand living love and its renewing energy, you will open to it more and more. You will open to it on a daily basis, and eventually, on a moment by moment basis, there. So you see that the benefit of shared responsibility is a wonderful gift to you, and worthy of your full participation . Let us move on to another topic of interest to you in the next chapter.

Chapter 87

There are many more things that I could tell you, but because of certain events that will be taking place, we will close out the book with this chapter. The scribe must move ahead and get this published as she will soon be involved in other activities that are important to the 'awakening to Oneness' of the planet there.

You have all that you need within the pages of this book to move you fully in the direction of your awakening, there. You have my guidance available to you directly, which is one of the most important things that has been put forth in this book and in all the writings that have come forth through this writer.

You have learned of God's meaning for all of creation, which is the wonderful flow, in and through all, of living love. This dynamic energy has as its function to renew, transform and redeem; to make all things right, as God so wills.

You have learned that God moves as a Wholeness — with no one or no thing left out. This means that you have available to you what your Father would have for you to do and be there. He has left nothing of himself away from his Wholeness. You are a direct inheritor there and are, indeed, divine.

We would like to thank Randi for her willingness all these years to follow through with what we have given her to do. She has been a "good and faithful" servant, and we love her dearly. In closing, I can tell you that this is the last book she will be writing. I would like to thank you who have followed the daily messages on the website throughout the many years. Many of you I have come to know personally as you have turned inward to me, and we have become close friends. I will always be there for you, I love you dearly, and know that you are never alone. We are, indeed, One.
