

Singleness of Purpose

Purpose that is fractured,
Broken from the Whole,
Has not a clear direction,
Visionless, its goal.

Your purpose must be single,
A laser-light like beam,
Diffusion is confusion,
A muddied-water stream.

Your purpose is your mission,
Its why you came to earth,
Do not be distracted,
Give diversion a wide berth.

The way to stay on purpose,
Is turning within to Me,
Next steps will be given,
In Transcendent purity.

Love will be our compass,
It never will mislead,
Your purpose will be given,
If love, indeed, you heed.

Your purpose, it is God's, dear,
It's true, one and the same,
To wake the world to Oneness,
All minds, as One, our aim.

So turn within to Me this day,
All cacophony let go,
Peace, the sanctuary,
For My words to forth flow.

In singleness of purpose,
I give My love so true,
So we can awaken others,
God's purpose there, for you!

In closing of these verses,
I restate what is known,
I am with you always,
Never are you alone.
