

Words With Love

My words will fortify you,
When you feel empty, bare,
Like a meal, when hungry,
They will sustain you, there.

Not sugar, fluff, nor empty,
My words, with love, will fill,
Will nourish well your being,
God's meaning they'll instill.

You need to hear this often,
That I love you, dear,
That I will never leave you,
We're One, in Mind, so clear.

We'll move, with joy, together,
Jubilant we'll be,
Each day will be a blessing,
A gift for you and Me.

If your heart feels troubled,
When you feel off the beam,
My words, with love, will warm you,
Renew you, heal, redeem.

A thousand times I've told you,
Yet, I've more in store.
A thousand times repeated,
I love you, evermore.

Your value is immense, dear,
You're God's point of light,
Let's find our joy this day, dear,
Bask in love's sunlight.

In closing of this little poem,
I echo what you've known,
I am with you always,
You are not alone.
