

 Valentine's Day

This day is meant for lovers,
Those who've found what's true,
It celebrates their union,
One heart composed of two.

If you've found your beloved,
And know what joy you share,
This day of celebration,
Will be so welcomed there!

You may have lost your loved one,
Through no fault of your own,
And now your heart feels empty,
You go it now, alone.

I want to share with all there,
What e're your state may be,
That I am there to love you,
Find joy and bliss with Me.

You say you need a body,
Along with spirit there,
That hugs and kisses matter,
For you to really share.

Perhaps I can't embrace you,
With physicality,
Yet what I give means more there,
Includes Totality.

It's living love I give you,
Nothing can compare,
This power of Creation,
God's Meaning's what I share.

Universal Meaning,
In its profundity,
Is but My arms wide open,
Embracing you and Me.

I give My heart to you, dear,
In simple words I say,
I am with you always,
With you, I'm here to stay. 