

The Legacy of Oneness

When that day comes and you depart,
And you're earth-bound no more,
You'll see you've left a legacy,
What you're remembered for.

You'll see that you've touched others,
You made a difference there,
Helped changed some lives for better,
When love was brought to bear.

You'll feel regret and sadness,
At what there could have been,
You yielded to your ego,
And hurt was caused therein.

You'll see your deepest meaning,
And what you came to be,
Was felt when we were joined as One,
Shone forth, integrity.

Our 'joining' was the key there,
The greatest lesson learned,
Alone, no more, you flourished,
To Me, as One, you turned.

You followed inner guidance,
Were led to give His light,
By letting God shine through you,
Helped open blinded sight.

You came to know most clearly,
That none exist alone,
Each one a sister, brother,
God's Oneness, you were shown.

When that day comes, you'll be prepared,
No fear will fill your heart,
Joined as One forever,
With gladness, you'll depart.

The legacy you're leaving,
Is witnessing for Me,
And My direct involvement,
Comes forth for All to see.

Life on earth soon over,
Rejoice, I'm here with you.
You're wanted on the other side,
I'm here to see you through.

To All who read this poem today,
The best that you can give,
Is God's legacy of Oneness,
It's how we're meant to live.

I am with you always,
Never are you alone,
My love for you is forever,
As One, you are My own.
