

Let's Clear a Misconception

Do you see yourself as sinner,
Always needing to atone,
Wearing guilt like filth, there,
Is this your comfort zone?

To live as perpetual sinner,
Means sin, this dirt you wear,
Must constantly be washed away,
Forgiveness begged for, there.

Let's clear a misconception,
Let's rid a faulty claim,
Inherently, you're God's own child,
He knows you by your name!

Your worth is so much greater,
From what you now can see,
You're held in Universal Mind,
As perfect, whole, and free.

Let's clear a widespread notion.
About your identity,
That says baptized in font or pool,
Will change your heredity.

You are God's own beloved,
And as you turn within,
You'll find that I'm right with you,
Where I have always been!

The sins that you've committed, dear,
Resulted from defense,
When you left, by choice, God's Oneness,
Now fear, loomed large, immense.

You're still God's lovely child, dear,
Nothing takes that away,
Let go of separation!
Join with Me this day!

Claim your rightful place there,
Walk tall, hold hands with Me,
No need to hang your head, nor kneel,
You're truly, family.

Let living love, God's meaning,
Shine forth as who you are,
You carry this as birthright,
You are God's shining star.

In closing, I will tell you,
You mean so much to Me,
We're bound as One, together,
God's will, our destiny!
