

A Time for Change

Change is now occurring,
Bright vistas hold your view,
You're letting go, releasing,
And opening to the new.

No longer held by ego,
That 'made up' use of mind,
The light of love now leads you,
You see! No longer blind.

You see that what's important,
Lies not in what's outside.
But found, in peace, within you,
Within, Lord, you abide.

With you, Lord, change is welcome,
It's not looked on in fear,
For change is but renewal,
God's will, for each, made clear.

If change, at first, upsets you
Your comfort zone's waylaid,
I'll share with you the reason,
Just why this change was made.

I see the bigger picture,
Of what's going on with you,
I see this change as healing,
God's love comes pouring through!

Trust is what is called for,
Soon you will plainly see,
This change's a far-reaching blessing,
For you, for all, 'twill be.

God's love's ever-renewing,
In heart, in soul, in mind,
Change is but renewal,
God's meaning's what you'll find.

So welcome change this day, dear,
And know that I'm with you,
We'll welcome change together,
Find joy in what's brand new!

In closing of this poem, dear,
I love you as my own,
I am with you always,
You are not alone.
