

The Vision

When you least expect it,
A miracle comes to view,
The way made plain without a doubt,
Love moves, makes all things new.

A shift of your attention,
Let's go of yesterday,
The perfect vision dawns, now,
Showing forth God's way.

Simple in its construct,
Yet answers every need,
The vision points the way, there,
In how to move, proceed.

There's peace in moving forward,
And doubt there is no more,
Holding hands with you, Lord,
God's will is what's in store.

The vision of a mission,
A place to live and teach,
A home, a sanctuary,
A place of love, for each.

When soon this life is over,
When all is said and done,
My joy will be you're with me,
We move, with Source, as One.

A vision and a mission,
To tell others what I've known,
You're there within for all, Lord,
We're truly not alone!

Love you give so freely,
Guidance, friendship, too,
Lord, I love you dearly,
My life I give to you!
