

As Life Unfolds

Your life is an unfoldment,
An ever-changing thing,
Each day an opportunity,
A choice for what you bring.

A choice to live alone, there,
Or answer to the call,
That I am always giving,
To join with Me, your All.

A mighty difference there will be,
If ego's call you heed,
Its purpose is excluding,
The inherent love you need.

The love that fills your mind with,
God's meaning, as your own,
For you're His point of light, there,
This love, this light has shone,

That all whom you encounter,
Along your path each day,
Will reap love's mighty gifting,
Real help along the way.

So choosing is the action,
Choose joining in your mind,
Open to your Wholeness,
Real friendship there you'll find.

We'll join as One together,
How joyful we will be,
One heart with single purpose,
Radiant light we'll be.

A light that makes a difference,
A light that sets things right,
A light that bring to others,
God's meaning, shining bright.

As your life unfolds, dear,
Choose who you really are,
We're joined as One together,
With love, our guiding star.
