

Call to Redemption

To be redeemed is to be brought back,
To the Original of you,
To what your Source created,
To what is pure and true.

To be redeemed you must let go,
Of self will and of pride,
Of ego's furtive calling,
Your truth, it wants to hide.

Redemption's call, and there is one,
Is only known when you,
Will open to your Maker,
Let in His perfect view.

Let in the way He made you,
Perfect, whole, and free,
With living love your meaning,
Embracing All you see.

I'm calling you this moment,
To be redeemed, so we,
Can make the call to others,
And join as family.

You are redeemed, my dear one,
No blemish do I see,
Only God's perfection,
Abiding here, with me.

In closing, I will tell you,
What you certainly have known,
I am with you always,
Never are you alone.
