

I'm Calling You

I'm calling you to join Me,
We have God's work to do,
We need to tell the others,
That directly, I come through.

We need to let them know, dear,
That they are not alone,
That I'm right there within them,
To love them as My Own.

The call to them is urgent,
For hopelessness is there,
Lost, alone, sans meaning,
The good news we must share.

The good news of My Presence,
I'm waiting at the door,
Ready when they're willing—
Love's healing balm, I'll pour.

This Love will bring God's meaning,
Its function's to redeem,
To renew, and to transform there—
Love's light, a steady beam.

A beam that points direction,
We'll follow this north star,
That brings us all to Oneness,
To whom we really are.

We are His Own Dear Children,
One family, including All,
Filled with God's great meaning!
Again, I make the call!

Please heed this call to join Me,
Our siblings need us there,
They need to know they're not alone,
We love them—deeply care.

You are God's point of light there,
Right there, right where you are.
Your most important calling?
To be His shining star!

In closing I will tell you,
What you by now have known,
I love you oh so dearly,
You are not alone.
